Sanity Airing Last Hope For Mrs. Duncan

Jury Decrees Death Penalty In Plotting Murder Of Relative

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — A sanity hearing next Tuesday holds Elizabeth Duncan's last hope of escaping sentence to the gas chamber for plotting the murder of her daughter-in-law.

A jury, which earlier had convicted her of first-degree murder in offering two men $6,000 to kill Olga Kupczyk Duncan, 30, a Canadian nurse, decreed Friday night that she must pay with her own life.

Prosecution and defense agreed to permit trial Judge Charles Blackstock to rule, without a jury, on Mrs. Duncan's sanity, since her plea of innocent by reason of insanity is still pending. Two court-appointed psychiatrists have testified they consider her legally sane.

If the court also holds the 54-year-old, oft-married Mrs. Duncan to be sane, a date will be set for the sentencing, but the jury's determination for the death penalty is mandatory. She would be confined in the County Jail to await her automatic appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Mrs. Duncan showed little or no emotion at the jury's verdict but, she later told reporters: "I thought it was a rotten deal: I was tried before a biased jury."

Mrs. Duncan's son, Frank, 30, also an attorney, told reporters: "The appeal will not fail. There is no question that there was political ambition on the part of the district attorney (Roy Gustafson.) He intends to climb to some higher position over the body of my mother."

Olga Duncan was kidnaped from her Santa Barbara apartment last Nov. 17 and strangled. The prosecution charged that the elder Mrs. Duncan was jealous of Olga and wanted her son all to herself.

Two laborers, Luis Moya and Augustine Baldonado, have admitted the actual slaying. They are awaiting trial on pleas of innocent by reason of insanity.

Pravda Believes East, West Talks Inevitable

MOSCOW (AP) — The Communist party newspaper Pravda said today East-West negotiations on the German issue are inevitable.

The paper quoted what it said was U.S. press reaction to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's recent news conference as proof.

Pravda published a Tass, Soviet news agency, dispatch from New York which reported general approval of Khrushchev's statements.

Driver Injured In Crash Fined On 2 Charges

East End Man Also Draws 10-Day Term After Guilty Pleas

An East End motorist was fined and jailed today on charges of drunk driving and leaving the scene of an accident as the aftermath of a wreck early this morning on Pennsylvania Ave. in which he was hurt slightly.

Benjamin Becze, 39, of 1450 Etruria St. pleaded guilty to both charges when arraigned before Municipal Judge George L. Brokaw.

He was fined $300 and costs, sentenced to 10 days in jail and his driver's license was suspended for 6 months on the drunk driving charge. Judge Brokaw added a fine of $25 and costs for leaving the scene.

Police said Becze was arrested at Palissey and Etruria Sts. about six minutes after his auto struck a parked car owned by Ed Williams, 1089½ Mapletree St. The mishap was timed at 2:50 a. m., police said.

Becze was treated at City Hospital for a laceration of the lip.

Officers said there was extensive damage to the right front of his 1957 auto and to the left rear of Williams' 1955 model.

No one was injured in a minor accident involving a Board of Education bus and a car operated by Ronald R. McLain, 27, of 1429 Commerce St., Wellsville, both police and the State Highway Patrol reported.

Hal E. Emerson, 57, of 123½ W. 5th St. told police he started to back into a space in front of Central School about 1:15 p. m. Friday when he heard a horn but was unable to avoid hitting McLain, who had pulled in behind him to discharge some passengers.

There was no damage to the bus but the grille, front fender and hood of the auto were damaged.

The patrol is required to investigate all accidents involving a school bus, state patrolmen explained.

Two other minor accidents also were reported by police.

A collision at 5:25 p. m. yesterday at Potters Alley and Broadway involved a Liverpool Transportation Co. taxi operated by Archie Clapsaddle, 37, of rear 685 Lincoln Ave., and a parked car owned by Robert K. Yost, 409 5th St., Wellsville, police said. Both cars were scratched, officers added.

An accident at 4:54 p. m. yesterday at W. 7th St. and Dresden Ave. involved a ¾-ton truck owned by Central Service of W. 7th St. and driven by Harold E. Flowers, 28, of 800 Dresden Ave. and a car operated by Keith Thomas Nelson, 16, of 825 Sophia St., officers said.

New Flareup Appears In Budget Fight

President Strongly Denounces Fund Cut By House Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new flareup in the battle of the budget appeared in prospect today as a result of President Eisenhower's strong denunciation of a House committee's fund cutting.

"Irresponsible action," Eisenhower said Friday after the House Appropriations Committee rejected his request for 225 million dollars in supplementary money for the Development Loan Fund.

In a statement issued from his Camp David, Md., headquarters, Eisenhower said:

"The action today if not reversed will represent a long step backward toward isolating our country and weakening our national security."

Speaking in unusually strong terms, Eisenhower said the loan fund "must have additional funds now." The fund finances loans to underdeveloped areas in connection with the foreign aid program.

The committee's rejection of the fund request highlighted a day of budget slashing.

The House itself cut more than 60 million dollars from proposed funds to finance the Treasury and Post Office departments during the 1960 fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Without controversy and by voice vote, the House passed and sent to the Senate a money bill appropriating $779,402,000 to the Treasury, $3,847,160,000 to the Post Office and $1,535,000 to the Tax Court.

These sums are $51,920,000 less than the Post Office requested, $8,310,000 less than the Treasury asked but the same amount sought by the Tax Court.

Passage of the bill cleared the way for a House vote and an almost certain floor fight next week on an omnibus appropriation bill which had contained Eisenhower's loan fund request.

The bill now earmarks $2,479,340,494 to finance miscellaneous federal agencies and departments for the remaining three months of the 1959 fiscal year.

Altogether, the Appropriations Committee slashed the omnibus measure by $385,614,032—of which the loan fund rejection was the biggest cut.

Cold Spell To Follow Brief Spring Preview

Spring arrived punctually at 3:55 a. m. today—but you couldn't tell it by the Ohio weatherman's forecast.

The Tri-State district basked in the mildest day in months Friday with the temperature searing into the upper 60's.

But it was a brief preview of spring—the forecast is for a subfreezing 25 to 27 tonight with snow flurries. Sunday will be cold with flurries possible.

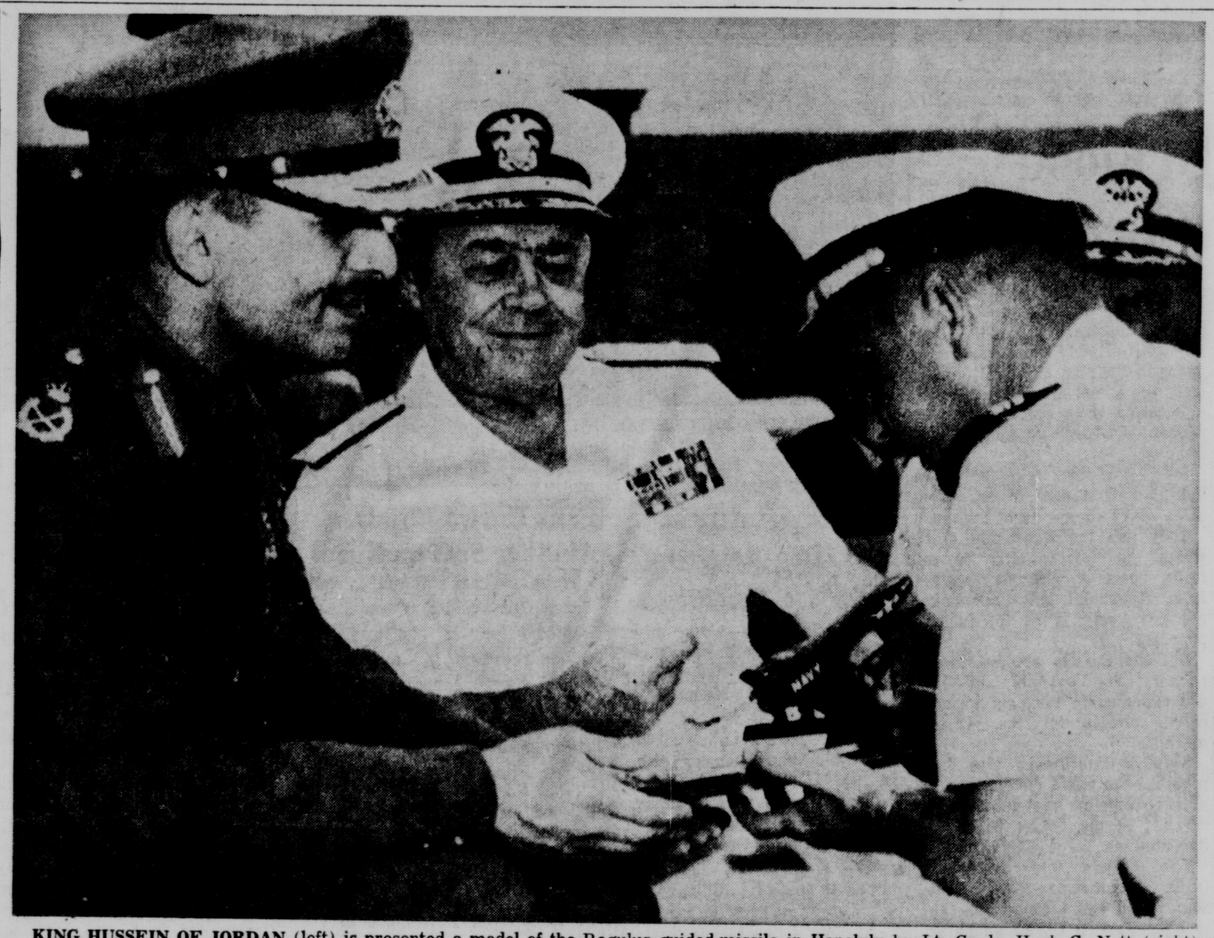

Dam 8 recorded an official high of 64 degrees for 2 hours yesterday—the last day of one of the worst and coldest winters in years. The overnight low was only 43 degrees. There were showers early today and more were expected, accompanied by winds, before the cold spell begins developing this afternoon.

Registrations Climb To 10,436 For Primary

With 16 new registrations, the number of East Liverpool voters qualified for the May 5 primaries reached 10,436 today, the County Election Board said.

Three voters registered when the board's office on W. 6th St. opened this morning and 13 were registered Friday, Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, said.

The board will maintain continuous 12-hour service Monday through Wednesday, the last three days to qualify to vote in the primaries, O'Hanlon reminded. The office will be open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Open Second Day Of Talks In Maryland

Leaders Are Joined By Rumbold, British Foreign Office Aide

BULLETIN

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan agreed today on a formula for offering to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev the prospect of a summit conference later this year.

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan sought today a compromise formula to offer Soviet Premier Khrushchev the prospect of a summit conference this summer.

The two leaders opened the second day of their Camp David conference, on a wooded ridge in the nearby Maryland mountains, at 9:40 a.m. EST.

Eisenhower and Macmillan, with their regular advisors, were joined by Sir Anthony Rumbold, an assistant undersecretary of the British Foreign Office in charge of European affairs and high level East-West talks.

Rumbold's presence, along with such regular counsellors such as Acting U.S. Secretary of State Christian Herter and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, spotlighted the problem of working out some agreeable arrangement on the summit issue.

Macmillan wants to give Khrushchev definite notice of unconditional Western readiness for a summit meeting. Eisenhower is standing firm on his position that a summit conference should be held only if developments in a prior foreign ministers meeting justified it.

The talks were resumed in pleasant spring weather, the same kind in which Eisenhower and Macmillan flew by helicopter Friday from Washington.

White House Press Secretary James Hagerty telephoned word of the opening of today's discussions from Camp David to the press center in Gettysburg.

Situation Tense, Rising, Report Says

Battle Rages In Capital Of Tibet Between Natives And Communists

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Fighting is raging in Lhasa, capital of Communist-held Tibet, the Indian Foreign Ministry reported today.

A terse midnight radio report from the Indian representative in "The Roof of the World" said: "Fighting in immediate vicinity of consulate. Situation tense and rising."

This was all that was received here suggesting the possibility that the radio — only free world link with Tibet — may have been cut off.

The Indian consulate is just outside Lhasa between the Dalai Lama's summer and winter palaces, which are only two miles apart.

The uprising was sparked, according to the Indian press, by an order to the 25-year-old god-king from the Red Chinese command in the capital telling him to report at once without bodyguards.

The whereabouts of the Dalai Lama, who is worshipped by the 1,300,000 Tibetans as their religious and political leader, was not known.

There was speculation in Indian newspapers that the captive ruler may have been kidnaped by the Communists or fled from his great Potala palace under protection of friends.

New Delhi authorities reportedly asked the Red Chinese Embassy here to take any steps necessary to protect the Indian consulate in Lhasa.

The Red Chinese here declined to comment on the reports of the fighting.

The Indian Foreign Ministry's confirmation of open fighting in Lhasa is significant. Careful not to antagonize Red China, Prime Minister Nehru has tended to discount reports of unrest and revolt in Tibet.

These reports of trouble in the mysterious land in the Himalayas have been growing since last summer when Khampa tribesmen of eastern Tibet slipped out of Lhasa to launch a guerrilla campaign against the Chinese Communists from mountain strongholds just south and east of the capital.

Payne Held For Action Of Grand Jury

CHARLESTON (AP) — Apathetic Richard Arlen Payne was in the Kanawha County jail here without bond pending grand jury action sometime after April 13 in connection with the kidnaping of a South Charleston woman and her three children.

Payne waived to the grand jury yesterday when he was taken before Magistrate O. C. Richardson. "I might as well," he said, after he heard the kidnaping charge against him.

Asst. Pros. Atty. James B. McIntyre said the grand jury would be asked to bring indictments on four counts of kidnaping. The possible sentence under the act, given the circumstances of Payne's case, is 10 years to life imprisonment.

The sallow-faced, 23-year-old ex-convict said the crux of his actions last Wednesday night was vegeance.

Payne abducted Mrs. Elma Baldwin, 29, and her three children from the residence of John H. Baldwin Wednesday night after he had tied up the family and remained in the house for some 2½ hours. The woman and children were not bound when Payne took them away in Baldwin's automobile and left the frantic husband behind and tied up.

State Police apprehended Payne after he fired shots at them near Logan, which is about 50 miles south of Charleston. Mrs. Baldwin and the three children were never harmed by Payne, nor were they

Winter Bows To Spring Following Farewell Storm

By The Associated Press

Winter bowed out to spring today, after unleashing a farewell storm Friday that brought near-blizzard conditions and dust storms to parts of the Southwest and three tornadoes that caused minor damage to Texas.

Spring began today at 3:55 a.m. (EST).

Two persons died in Colorado from exertions blamed on the snow there.

One tornado struck near Trenton, Tex., 50 miles northeast of Dallas, destroying or damaging five houses and six barns. Another tornado uprooted trees and damaged two houses as it brushed the northeast edge of Marshall, Tex. The third damaged 22 homes, three badly, at Paxton, a village of about 200 persons 40 miles south of Marshall near the Louisiana line.

Winds up to 86 m.p.h. howled across the Texas Panhandle Friday night piling up snow in three-foot drifts. Blowing snow reduced visibility to zero.

The Texas Highway Department closed all roads in the Texas Panhandle north of the Canadian River because of the drifts. It said the drifts in the Texline area were so big snow plows had difficulty moving them.

Beltline Still Planned From River To Lake

A proposed short-line conveyor at Cleveland has not ruled out plans for a "rubber railroad" linking the Ohio River and Lake Erie.

The 103-mile, multi-million dollar overhead beltline between East Liverpool and a lake port still is a possibility.

H. B. Stewart Jr., president of Riverlake Belt Conveyor Lines, Inc., said at Akron Friday the group's proposal for an all-Cleveland beltline simply had been placed ahead of the larger project.

The state-crossing belt has been blocked by railroad opposition in the Ohio General Assembly several times in the last 10 years.

No effort to get needed legislation was made at the present assembly. Said Stewart:

"While our Columbus observers reported a better outlook for conveyor legislation than at any time during the past 10 years, we felt that we had to take first things first.

"That is why we did not introduce legislation before the March 5 deadline.

"The fact that we gave priority to the Cleveland line study certainly doesn't mean abandonment of our 103-mile lake to Ohio River conveyor project. We believe the river-lake conveyor is inevitable."

Stewart said some two years of study has gone into the proposed belt system linking lakefront ore docks with steel mills in the Flats and the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. yards in Bedford. As a result, he said, this Cleveland project can be pushed ahead rapidly.

ICBM Fired By Air Force

Hopes To Recover Thor Rocket Intact

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., (AP) —The Air Force hurled a futuristic ICBM warhead far out over the Atlantic aboard a fiery Thor-Able rocket today and hoped to recover it intact for the first time in six launchings.

The huge two-stage rocket, a modified combination of the intermediate range Thor and Vanguard appeared to perform perfectly during the 2½ minutes it was in sight after a spectacular blastoff.

A fleet of search ships and planes waited in rendezvous off Ascension Island 5,000 miles to the southeast ready to recover the elusive cone after it splashed into the sea.

A bright puff and then a tiny flash of light in rapid succession indicated that the second stage of the 80-foot launching vehicle had ignited.

Up to now the Air Force had failed to retrieve one of the tiny cones that are vital in aiding missile scientists to develop the ultimate nuclear warhead shield for such ICBM's of the future as the Titan and Minuteman.

Five previous flights in 10 months — three of them with tiny white mice aboard—all resulted in failure, although two of the Thor-Ables flew intercontinental range without a hitch.

The latest Thor-Able was equipped with an advanced guidance system — the same as in the massive Titan — to insure greater accuracy on the flight 80 miles in space.

New Flareup Appears In Budget Fight

President Strongly Denounces Fund Cut By House Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new flareup in the battle of the budget appeared in prospect today as a result of President Eisenhower's strong denunciation of a House committee's fund cutting.

The House itself cut more than 60 million dollars from proposed funds to finance the Treasury and Post Office departments during the 1960 fiscal year beginning next July 1.

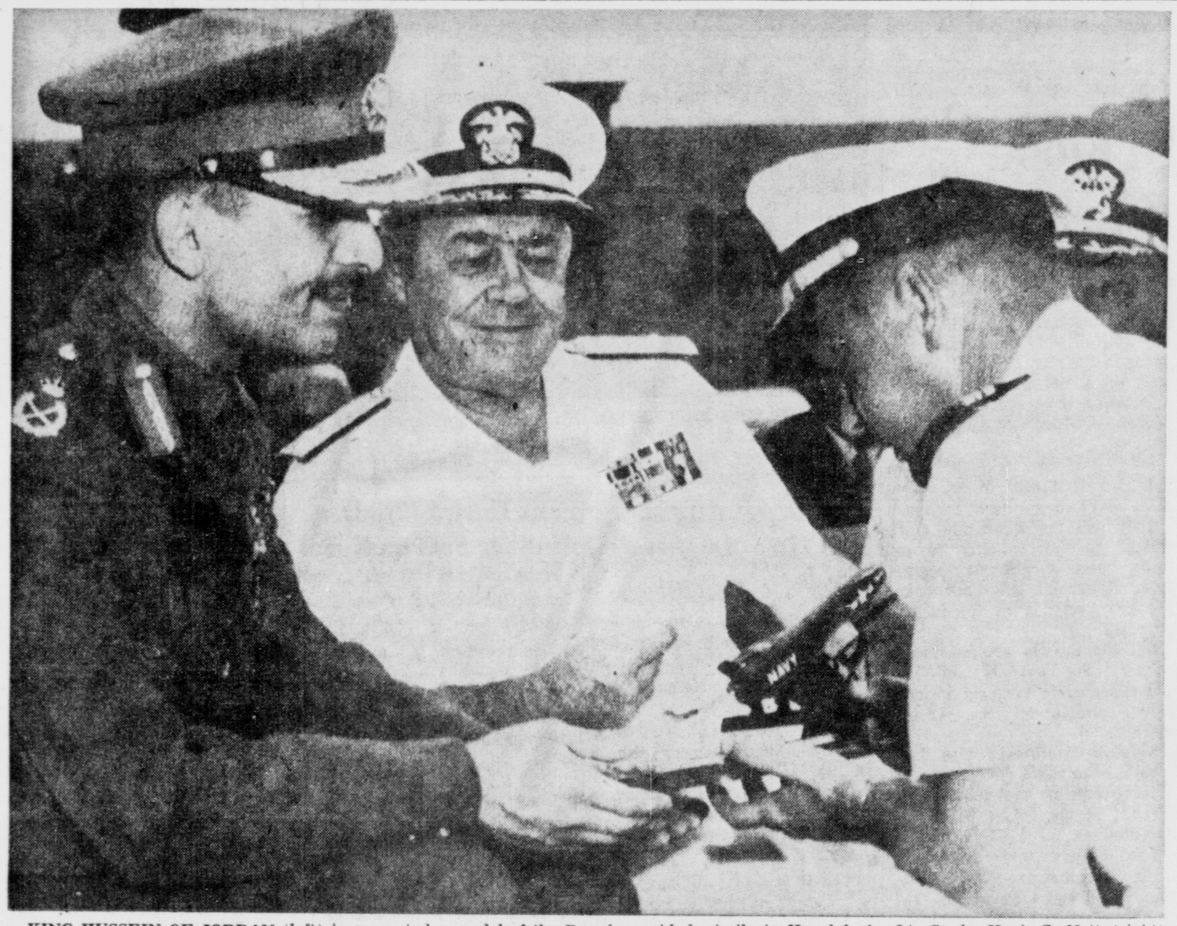

Without controversy and by voice vote, the House passed and sent to the Senate a money bill appropriating $779,402,000 to the Treasury, $3,847,160,000 to the Post Office and $1,535,000 to the Tax Court.

Altogether, the Appropriations Committee slashed the omnibus measure by $385,614,032—of which the loan fund rejection was the biggest cut.

Eisenhower and Macmillan, with their regular advisors, were joined by Sir Anthony Rumbold, an assistant undersecretary of the British Foreign Office in charge of European affairs and high level East-West talks.

Rumbold's presence, along with such regular counsellors such as Acting U.S. Secretary of State Christian Herter and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, spotlighted the problem of working out some agreeable arrangement on the summit issue.

Macmillan wants to give Khrushchev definite notice of unconditional Western readiness for a summit meeting. Eisenhower is standing firm on his position that a summit conference should be held only if developments in a prior foreign ministers meeting justified it.

The talks were resumed in pleasant spring weather, the same kind in which Eisenhower and Macmillan flew by helicopter Friday from Washington.

White House Press Secretary James Hagerty telephoned word of the opening of today's discussions from Camp David to the press center in Gettysburg.

Beltline Still Planned From River To Lake

A proposed short-line conveyor at Cleveland has not ruled out plans for a "rubber railroad" linking the Ohio River and Lake Erie.

The 103-mile, multi-million dollar overhead beltline between East Liverpool and a lake port still is a possibility.

H. B. Stewart Jr., president of Riverlake Belt Conveyor Lines, Inc., said at Akron Friday the group's proposal for an all-Cleveland beltline simply had been placed ahead of the larger project.

The state-crossing belt has been blocked by railroad opposition in the Ohio General Assembly several times in the last 10 years.

No effort to get needed legislation was made at the present assembly. Said Stewart:

"While our Columbus observers reported a better outlook for conveyor legislation than at any time during the past 10 years, we felt that we had to take first things first.

"That is why we did not introduce legislation before the March 5 deadline.

"The fact that we gave priority to the Cleveland line study certainly doesn't mean abandonment of our 103-mile lake to Ohio River conveyor project. We believe the river-lake conveyor is inevitable."

Stewart said some two years of study has gone into the proposed belt system linking lakefront ore docks with steel mills in the Flats and the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. yards in Bedford. As a result, he said, this Cleveland project can be pushed ahead rapidly.

ICBM Fired By Air Force

Hopes To Recover Thor Rocket Intact

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., (AP) —The Air Force hurled a futuristic ICBM warhead far out over the Atlantic aboard a fiery Thor-Able rocket today and hoped to recover it intact for the first time in six launchings.

The huge two-stage rocket, a modified combination of the intermediate range Thor and Vanguard appeared to perform perfectly during the 2½ minutes it was in sight after a spectacular blastoff.

A fleet of search ships and planes waited in rendezvous off Ascension Island 5,000 miles to the southeast ready to recover the elusive cone after it splashed into the sea.

A bright puff and then a tiny flash of light in rapid succession indicated that the second stage of the 80-foot launching vehicle had ignited.

Up to now the Air Force had failed to retrieve one of the tiny cones that are vital in aiding missile scientists to develop the ultimate nuclear warhead shield for such ICBM's of the future as the Titan and Minuteman.

Five previous flights in 10 months — three of them with tiny white mice aboard—all resulted in failure, although two of the Thor-Ables flew intercontinental range without a hitch.

The latest Thor-Able was equipped with an advanced guidance system — the same as in the massive Titan — to insure greater accuracy on the flight 80 miles in space.

DiSalle Clears Impression Of Being 'Soft On Crime'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Michael V. DiSalle says he wants to correct any impression that he is "soft on crime generally" because of his stand against capital punishment.

He made that known Friday at a meeting in his office attended by officials of the Pardon and Parole Commission and the Division of Correction.

The governor urged maximum supervision of prisoners on parole and warned against exceptions that would tend to imply a weakness in the parole system.

At the same time, however, DiSalle said the parole commission should review convicts' cases periodically rather than extending their prison stay a decade or more without review.

He noted there was some difference of opinion among state officials about periodic review and also on the length of parole supervision after an inmate's release from prison.

Commission members and correction chief Maury Koblentz agreed that those differences could be ironed out.

Koblentz urged increasing what he said was the state's inadequate parole staff by at least 40 workers.

At another meeting Friday, DiSalle conferred with officials of nine cities and the Ohio Municipal League. They protested bills pending in the Legislature which they said would boost their municipal operating expenses by $29,250,000 a year.

The cost figure was submitted by Cleveland Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze who headed a delegation of mayors and their aides from Cuyahoga County cities and also Canton, Cincinnati, Columbus and Struthers (Mahoning County). The league is composed of 505 municipalities.

Celebrezze said larger cities spent more than four million dollars last year for poor relief, in addition to state subsidies. He said DiSalle's proposal for the state to return poor relief care to local communities could impose an extra cost of $15,750,000 on the cities, if the state dropped out altogether.

So Jobless Won't Wait 90 Days

GOP Wants $25 Million SUB Released Immediately

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Republicans in the Democratic-controlled Legislature want 25-million dollars in backed up supplemental unemployment benefits released immediately so Ohio's jobless workers won't have to wait 90 days for the payments.

Under provisions of the new SUB law, signed Thursday by Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, jobless workers can collect SUB payments and state unemployment compensation simultaneously. That's what the Ohio Supreme Court said could not be done under previously existing statutes.

But the SUB law did not get Republican support in the Legislature to pass as an emergency measure. That would have made it effective upon the governor's signature. Hence the 90-day wait.

The 90 days also applies to the law's provision to release back SUB payments, held up by the Supreme Court decision.

But there is an emergency bill pending in the Ohio House, sponsored by Rep. John W. Brown (R-Medina), to release the back SUB funds now, and eliminate the three-month wait.

Rep. Roger Cloud (R-Logan), House minority leader, said in a statement Friday:

"If there is a real desire on the part of all concerned to place in the hands, immediately, of eligible unemployed people the money now being held in trust for them, then there is no reason for delay.

"The House Republican minority will keep faith in its commitments to support such an action."

Cloud explained why Republicans refused to support the SUB bill's emergency clause. The reason, he said, was because Democrats rejected a GOP offer to vote for the Brown bill if the SUB issue was placed under legislative study.

Soviet Plans To Flood Market With 'Cheap' Oil

By CARL OLOF BOLANG

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The Soviets are getting set with thousands of miles of pipelines to flood the north European market with low-priced crude oil.

Scandinavian sources said today the oil will flow from areas as far away as Baku on the Caspian Sea.

A Finnish trade delegation headed by Trade Minister Ahti Karjalainen which returned to Helsinki from Moscow this week confirmed that the Soviets have completed a huge transcontinental network to link the Caspain and Black seas with the Baltic.

The Finns were offered Soviet oil "at a very favorable price," a spokesman said. The exact price was not disclosed.

Soviet technicians are putting the finishing touches on a modern port for tankers at Klaipeda (prewar Memel), in Lithuania. It is expected to be put into operation for small tankers this spring.

Another oil port is planned at Ventspils (Windau), on the Latvian coast of the Baltic.

A usually reliable informant versed in east European affairs said the harbors of both towns are shallow, but the Russians plan dredging to accommodate trans-oceanic tankers.

Soviet oil sold to north Europeans in the past has had to come from the Black Sea by tankers on month-long trips via the Mediterranean, Atlantic and English Channel.

Swedish experts take the Soviet bid as a first sign of an all-out sales drive in northern Europe.

They say the Caucasian crude which the Soviets offer to sell from ports a one day voyage from Stockholm and Copenhagen presently only is fit for heating purposes.

But the Soviets are building a refinery at Ventspils and they are expected to turn out gasoline there suitable for the Western market.

Swedish informants also have reported the rapid development of a large pipeline system for natural gas in the Soviet Union and its satellites.

The Soviets told Swedes at trade Negotiations in Moscow some time ago they will be able to offer Sweden Ukrainian natural gas through plastic pipelines under the Baltic Sea in a few years.

Cook Promises Efforts To Spur Work At Arsenal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Robert Cook (D-Ohio) promised 3,000 petitioning Ohioans today to sound out every concerned government agency in an attempt to step up work at the Ravenna Arsenal.

Cook gave this assurance in letters to those businessmen and others who had protested in a petition the employment decline at the arsenal from a wartime peak of 20,000 employes to a present day 206.

Cook's district has considerable unemployment. Portage County—where the Ravenna Arsenal is—has 1,600 or 7.5 per cent unemployed.

Cook said he could make no promises as to what he can accomplish towards reactivating the arsenal.

One complaint of the petitioners was that the military is acquiring more land for munitions plants while existing arsenals are not being fully used.

Cook said he has checked this point, and has found that the military is not engaged in buying new land for this type of activity.

Celli's Music Firm Buys Former Market Structure

John A. Celli, founder of the Celli Music Center, Inc., today announced purchase of the former Kelly Market building on St. Clair Ave. and transfer of his business from Broadway when extensive remodeling of the new quarters is completed.

It will be the third home for the expanding music instrument sales and instruction firm since it began as an accordion studio in a room over Bendheim's shoe store on E. 6th St. in 1950.

Celli moved the business to the present location at 625 Broadway in 1953 after the former residential property owned by Maurice Rapport was remodeled to provide two floors for the music firm. An apartment is on the third floor.

Plans for the new quarters, at 625 St. Clair Ave., call for extensive remodeling. The basement quarters will provide a recital hall and soundproof studios with the first floor devoted to display of instruments, organs and pianos.

The firm will also be able to enlarge its instrument repair and piano reconditioning service with the additional room and more facilities.

The firm already handles numerous makes of instruments and electronic organs and these will be increased and a "prestige" line of pianos will be added in the new quarters. He expects to move in three or four weeks.

The ground floor will be tiled and carpeted throughout and the front will be completely remodeled in a modernistic style. The building, purchased from Mrs. Alice Donahey of Mayberry Ln., has a 40-front frontage and is 60 feet deep with a parking lot at the rear. There are two apartments on the second floor. It is a corner property, abutting on an alley.

Chester Brown is contractor for the renovations which are under way.

The firm now employs six persons, with Celli and three others as instructors in various instruments. He said more may be hired as the business expands.

The company was incorporated about nine months ago with Celli as president. He purchased the building, which is being rented to the corporation.

The transaction was handled by the Hendershot Real Estate Agency with the participation of Merl McSwegin of Jack Davies Real Estate.

Celli took two years of music study at Duquesne University when his formal music education was interrupted by his late father's illness, but he continued his practical training as instructor and in sales and service of numerous instruments.

He resides at 129 Midland Ave., Midland.

Cook Promises Efforts To Spur Work At Arsenal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Robert Cook (D-Ohio) promised 3,000 petitioning Ohioans today to sound out every concerned government agency in an attempt to step up work at the Ravenna Arsenal.

Cook gave this assurance in letters to those businessmen and others who had protested in a petition the employment decline at the arsenal from a wartime peak of 20,000 employes to a present day 206.

Cook's district has considerable unemployment. Portage County—where the Ravenna Arsenal is—has 1,600 or 7.5 per cent unemployed.

Cook said he could make no promises as to what he can accomplish towards reactivating the arsenal.

One complaint of the petitioners was that the military is acquiring more land for munitions plants while existing arsenals are not being fully used.

Cook said he has checked this point, and has found that the military is not engaged in buying new land for this type of activity.

their Camp David conference, the Allied leaders also were expected to discuss military arrangements in support of their determination to maintain the Western position in Berlin despite Soviet pressures.

Dep. Secretary of Defense Donald A. Quarles was summoned from Washington to participate in the Berlin crisis talks. Also asked to the Catoctin Mountain conference room were John A. McCone, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission,, and presidential science adviser James R. Killian.

On the British side Macmillan asked Con O'Neil, assistant secretary in the London Foreign Office, and Sir Patrick Dean, Foreign Office deputy undersecretary for defense matters, to come from Washington.

Ailing Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is represented at the conference by acting Secretary Christian A. Herter. Macmillan's chief adviser is Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

Aside from Berlin and German Eisenhower and Macmillan were planning to discuss the deadlocked negotiations with the Soviet Union on a nuclear test ban. This is among the issues on which the two do not see eye-to-eye.

Macmillan suggested to Khrushchev a month ago in Moscow some new ideas on a test ban. The ideas have not been officially disclosed, but Eisenhower told a recent news conference he was not convinced they were practical.

Divergencies of view about offering Khrushchev a summer summit conference were reported to have emerged during Friday's opening round of discussions.

Eisenhower, as he said in a broadcast speech Monday night, is prepared to go to a summit conference if developments justify it. This means that he wants from the foreign ministers meeting some progress toward resolution of the Berlin crisis. Macmillan reportedly believes that a summit meeting must be held regardless of what the foreign ministers do, and he wants the new notes to Moscow to fix a definite time for a top-level meeting.

Tex., except U.S. Highways 87 and 68 to the south, were closed because of poor visibility.

Several motorists were stalled in the Spearman, Tex., area, but the Texas Highway Patrol said they were rescued and none of them was in danger.

The storm developed when an intense low pressure area over the Texas-Oklahoma Panhandle drew freezing air from the high Rockies. As the air rushed east, it encountered moist, balmy air, percipitated snow and churned up dust storms.

Friday night the storm veered from its northeast course and headed toward Louisiana, Arkansas and the central Gulf states.

The storm dropped up to five inches of snow in eastern Colorado. The snow blocked U.S. 85-87 between Castle Rock and Colorado Springs, south of Denver. Many eastern Colorado schools closed.

Clayton, N.M., reported nine inches of snow on the ground and roads in the area blocked. Some highways at Raton were barricaded to prevent cars from trying to go through. Raton Pass was icy and slick, but open. Power lines were torn down in northeastern New Mexico.

Showers Halt Grass Blazes

Firemen Kept Busy On Rural Area Runs

Early morning showers dampened the countryside and apparently halted further threats of grass fires after area firemen were kept busy Friday answering a series of calls to blazes in dry woodlands and fields. There were also a number of calls Thursday.

Five district fires, two in which arson is suspected, were extinguished yesterday and early today.

Charles Heffner of Hillcrest Wellsville, district fire warden, said two fires in a hilly wooded area off Route 39 last night and early today are believed to have been set deliberately.

Heffner said the first fire off Route 39 about a mile from Wellsville was located near the Jefferson - Columbiana County line. It was reported at 1:30 p. m. yesterday.

Heffner obtained the aid of two farmers to help put it out. The fire truck was not able to get into the area because of the rough terrain, he said.

The second call was received at 11 p. m. The fire was about a quarter of a mile from the first. Heffner said he and the farmers worked until 3 a. m. today quelling the blaze.

The fire was hard to extinguish because of many dead logs and tree stumps which were burning. Over an acre burned.

"There is no doubt that someone deliberately set the fires," Heffner said. No one lives within the area and there are no known roads into the site.

Two housewives burning paper which got out of control were blamed for two grass fires yesterday afternoon at LaCroft and on Shadyside Ave.

The Liverpool Township, West, volunteer fire department received the first call at 12:30 p. m. to Shadyside Ave where an acre of grass and brush burned over. The second fire at 3 p. m. burned about a third of an acre but the blaze endangered a building, firemen said.

Heffner was called and investigated along with Homer Cronin, assistant chief of the west department, and a deputy fire warden. Five others were warned about improper burning yesterday, Cronin said.

He warned that anyone living outside the city limits must have a permit to burn outdoors. Also any trash being burned must be in a container with a cover, he said.

Permits are issued free at the fire station in LaCroft or at Cronin's home on LaCroft St.

Cronin also asked that anyone spotting a grass fire or any type of blaze to contact the department immediately at FU 5-5564.

Nine members of the Liverpool Township, East, volunteer fire department answered a call at 1:30 p. m. to put out a grass fire at the home of Mrs. Florence Seckman of Boyd St., Dixonville.

Mrs. Seckman, who was burning papers, had a fainting spell after the fire got out of control and was unable to call the department, firemen said.

The alarm was turned in by Fire Lt. Arthur Glasure. A half acre of garden area was burned over and minor damage resulted to a turkey pen, firemen said.

At Newell, volunteer firemen were called out three times yesterday, once for a grass fire in a field on the 6th St. Rd., and twice for a fire at the dump on 2nd St.

Firemen answered the third call last night when it was reported the dump still was smoldering.

Bringing Up A Family

Shy Child Needs Help Of Parents

By Garry Meyers

Over the years, the many letters I have received about the very shy child have been concerned largely with children under six. Sometimes it is the babe in arms who won't go to a stranger or will cry when one approaches him. Most letters I get about shy children reveal that the mother is worried about what other adults think of her. Rarely is there any indication that she is concerned about the unhappy feelings of the tot. The mother may be at the store or on the street with her child of two, three or four, when she mets an adult friend.

The friend greets the youngster, who doesn't respond in conventional ways. He may hang his head and chew his fist in silence. The mother urges, even commands, the youngster to speak up, and the adult friend may prod his mother to do so, rendering the mother more and more ashamed that the child does not speak or shake hands.

MAYBE THE mother scolds the tot then or warns him of what she will do to him when they get home. All the while she is prompted by what she supposes the adult friend expects.

How tragic that any grownup should suppose a little child is ornery when he's just shy.

As a matter of fact, the youngster is so full of fear that he is speechless — then to be scolded and punished for this suffering!

If your tot is shy with adults, put yourself in his place. Then you will act wisely. Instead of pressuring him to respond conventionally, you will help him get over his suffering. You will help him keep at a comfortable distance. You will direct the stranger away from this child. If or when the tot feels sufficient courage, he will speak up.

—:—

THE YOUNGSTER who is or is not shy of strange adults may be very shy with other children. You don't cultivate social courage in him, even then, by arbitrary commands. It is a matter of gradual adjustment. See that he is often with other children of his age—one at a time at first, more later. Set the stage, patiently, so he can have fun with playmates.

My bulletins, "The Child Who Is Shy" and "Tot Learning To Be Sociable," may be had by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

hurt in the brief scuffle with State Police.

Another penitentiary sentence for Payne may be just what he wants.

He related that the abduction was merely his own plot to kill a former cellmate at the State Penitentiary at Moundsville. Payne served seven years on a conviction of attempted armed robbery and was released only last week.

Payne addressed a note to Gov. Underwood, which was left behind at the Baldwin home. It demanded that Underwood grant his demands for the release from prison of Burton Junior Post or he would kill and torture the children he kidnaped.

Post still is in prison at Moundsville. Post, through a prison guard, said he didn't know why Payne was mad at him.

Dance Banned After 'Rumble'

Mayor At Wellsville Orders 'Hops' Halted

In a move to prevent any further teenage gang trouble, Wellsville authorities have ordered sponsors to discontinue dances held in the Post Office building.

Quick action by Wellsville police Wednesday night prevented what could have erupted into a gang fight, authorities said. Twenty-five youths were taken into custody. The boys, the majority of them from East Liverpool, were later released to the custody of their parents.

Mayor William J. Shoub said today the dances were halted as a precautionary move." Dances were held on the third floor of the Post Office each Wednesday and Saturday nights.

Sidney Grubbs of Weirton a disc jockey known as Mr. D, conducted the Wednesday night affars and Ralph Fusco of Wellsville, owner of a record shop, held dances on Saturday nights.

The primary trouble seemed to be on Wednesday nights, authorities said. The Saturday night dances were orderly.

Police confiscated knives, blackjacks, a wrench, hammer handle and a roll of pennies from the boys Wednesday night. They admitted they were prepared for a "rumble" although many said they had heard of the impending trouble and just "went to see the action." Most of them belonged to auto clubs.

Six extra police officers, two cruisers from the Lisbon State Highway Patrol and Sheriff Russell J. Van Fossan and three of his deputies aided in the move. Police Chief John Hephner of Wellsville had received a tip on the expected trouble and made the preparations to halt it.

Hephner said today no members of the club known as "Cam Busters" were involved in the incident.

their Camp David conference, the Allied leaders also were expected to discuss military arrangements in support of their determination to maintain the Western position in Berlin despite Soviet pressures.

Dep. Secretary of Defense Donald A. Quarles was summoned from Washington to participate in the Berlin crisis talks. Also asked to the Catoctin Mountain conference room were John A. McCone, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission,, and presidential science adviser James R. Killian.

On the British side Macmillan asked Con O'Neil, assistant secretary in the London Foreign Office, and Sir Patrick Dean, Foreign Office deputy undersecretary for defense matters, to come from Washington.

Ailing Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is represented at the conference by acting Secretary Christian A. Herter. Macmillan's chief adviser is Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

Aside from Berlin and German Eisenhower and Macmillan were planning to discuss the deadlocked negotiations with the Soviet Union on a nuclear test ban. This is among the issues on which the two do not see eye-to-eye.

Macmillan suggested to Khrushchev a month ago in Moscow some new ideas on a test ban. The ideas have not been officially disclosed, but Eisenhower told a recent news conference he was not convinced they were practical.

Divergencies of view about offering Khrushchev a summer summit conference were reported to have emerged during Friday's opening round of discussions.

Eisenhower, as he said in a broadcast speech Monday night, is prepared to go to a summit conference if developments justify it. This means that he wants from the foreign ministers meeting some progress toward resolution of the Berlin crisis. Macmillan reportedly believes that a summit meeting must be held regardless of what the foreign ministers do, and he wants the new notes to Moscow to fix a definite time for a top-level meeting.

Tex., except U.S. Highways 87 and 68 to the south, were closed because of poor visibility.

Several motorists were stalled in the Spearman, Tex., area, but the Texas Highway Patrol said they were rescued and none of them was in danger.

The storm developed when an intense low pressure area over the Texas-Oklahoma Panhandle drew freezing air from the high Rockies. As the air rushed east, it encountered moist, balmy air, percipitated snow and churned up dust storms.

Friday night the storm veered from its northeast course and headed toward Louisiana, Arkansas and the central Gulf states.

The storm dropped up to five inches of snow in eastern Colorado. The snow blocked U.S. 85-87 between Castle Rock and Colorado Springs, south of Denver. Many eastern Colorado schools closed.

Clayton, N.M., reported nine inches of snow on the ground and roads in the area blocked. Some highways at Raton were barricaded to prevent cars from trying to go through. Raton Pass was icy and slick, but open. Power lines were torn down in northeastern New Mexico.

Showers Halt Grass Blazes

Firemen Kept Busy On Rural Area Runs

Early morning showers dampened the countryside and apparently halted further threats of grass fires after area firemen were kept busy Friday answering a series of calls to blazes in dry woodlands and fields. There were also a number of calls Thursday.

Five district fires, two in which arson is suspected, were extinguished yesterday and early today.

Charles Heffner of Hillcrest Wellsville, district fire warden, said two fires in a hilly wooded area off Route 39 last night and early today are believed to have been set deliberately.

Heffner said the first fire off Route 39 about a mile from Wellsville was located near the Jefferson - Columbiana County line. It was reported at 1:30 p. m. yesterday.

Heffner obtained the aid of two farmers to help put it out. The fire truck was not able to get into the area because of the rough terrain, he said.

The second call was received at 11 p. m. The fire was about a quarter of a mile from the first. Heffner said he and the farmers worked until 3 a. m. today quelling the blaze.

The fire was hard to extinguish because of many dead logs and tree stumps which were burning. Over an acre burned.

"There is no doubt that someone deliberately set the fires," Heffner said. No one lives within the area and there are no known roads into the site.

Two housewives burning paper which got out of control were blamed for two grass fires yesterday afternoon at LaCroft and on Shadyside Ave.

The Liverpool Township, West, volunteer fire department received the first call at 12:30 p. m. to Shadyside Ave where an acre of grass and brush burned over. The second fire at 3 p. m. burned about a third of an acre but the blaze endangered a building, firemen said.

Heffner was called and investigated along with Homer Cronin, assistant chief of the west department, and a deputy fire warden. Five others were warned about improper burning yesterday, Cronin said.

He warned that anyone living outside the city limits must have a permit to burn outdoors. Also any trash being burned must be in a container with a cover, he said.

Permits are issued free at the fire station in LaCroft or at Cronin's home on LaCroft St.

Cronin also asked that anyone spotting a grass fire or any type of blaze to contact the department immediately at FU 5-5564.

Nine members of the Liverpool Township, East, volunteer fire department answered a call at 1:30 p. m. to put out a grass fire at the home of Mrs. Florence Seckman of Boyd St., Dixonville.

Mrs. Seckman, who was burning papers, had a fainting spell after the fire got out of control and was unable to call the department, firemen said.

The alarm was turned in by Fire Lt. Arthur Glasure. A half acre of garden area was burned over and minor damage resulted to a turkey pen, firemen said.

At Newell, volunteer firemen were called out three times yesterday, once for a grass fire in a field on the 6th St. Rd., and twice for a fire at the dump on 2nd St.

Firemen answered the third call last night when it was reported the dump still was smoldering.

Bringing Up A Family

Shy Child Needs Help Of Parents

Over the years, the many letters I have received about the very shy child have been concerned largely with children under six. Sometimes it is the babe in arms who won't go to a stranger or will cry when one approaches him. Most letters I get about shy children reveal that the mother is worried about what other adults think of her. Rarely is there any indication that she is concerned about the unhappy feelings of the tot. The mother may be at the store or on the street with her child of two, three or four, when she mets an adult friend.

By Garry Meyers

The friend greets the youngster, who doesn't respond in conventional ways. He may hang his head and chew his fist in silence. The mother urges, even commands, the youngster to speak up, and the adult friend may prod his mother to do so, rendering the mother more and more ashamed that the child does not speak or shake hands.

—:—

MAYBE THE mother scolds the tot then or warns him of what she will do to him when they get home. All the while she is prompted by what she supposes the adult friend expects.

How tragic that any grownup should suppose a little child is ornery when he's just shy.

As a matter of fact, the youngster is so full of fear that he is speechless — then to be scolded and punished for this suffering!

If your tot is shy with adults, put yourself in his place. Then you will act wisely. Instead of pressuring him to respond conventionally, you will help him get over his suffering. You will help him keep at a comfortable distance. You will direct the stranger away from this child. If or when the tot feels sufficient courage, he will speak up.

—:—

THE YOUNGSTER who is or is not shy of strange adults may be very shy with other children. You don't cultivate social courage in him, even then, by arbitrary commands. It is a matter of gradual adjustment. See that he is often with other children of his age—one at a time at first, more later. Set the stage, patiently, so he can have fun with playmates.

My bulletins, "The Child Who Is Shy" and "Tot Learning To Be Sociable," may be had by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Another penitentiary sentence for Payne may be just what he wants.

He related that the abduction was merely his own plot to kill a former cellmate at the State Penitentiary at Moundsville. Payne served seven years on a conviction of attempted armed robbery and was released only last week.

Payne addressed a note to Gov. Underwood, which was left behind at the Baldwin home. It demanded that Underwood grant his demands for the release from prison of Burton Junior Post or he would kill and torture the children he kidnaped.

Post still is in prison at Moundsville. Post, through a prison guard, said he didn't know why Payne was mad at him.

Dance Banned After 'Rumble'

Mayor At Wellsville Orders 'Hops' Halted

In a move to prevent any further teenage gang trouble, Wellsville authorities have ordered sponsors to discontinue dances held in the Post Office building.

Quick action by Wellsville police Wednesday night prevented what could have erupted into a gang fight, authorities said. Twenty-five youths were taken into custody. The boys, the majority of them from East Liverpool, were later released to the custody of their parents.

Mayor William J. Shoub said today the dances were halted as a precautionary move." Dances were held on the third floor of the Post Office each Wednesday and Saturday nights.

Sidney Grubbs of Weirton a disc jockey known as Mr. D, conducted the Wednesday night affars and Ralph Fusco of Wellsville, owner of a record shop, held dances on Saturday nights.

The primary trouble seemed to be on Wednesday nights, authorities said. The Saturday night dances were orderly.

Police confiscated knives, blackjacks, a wrench, hammer handle and a roll of pennies from the boys Wednesday night. They admitted they were prepared for a "rumble" although many said they had heard of the impending trouble and just "went to see the action." Most of them belonged to auto clubs.

Six extra police officers, two cruisers from the Lisbon State Highway Patrol and Sheriff Russell J. Van Fossan and three of his deputies aided in the move. Police Chief John Hephner of Wellsville had received a tip on the expected trouble and made the preparations to halt it.

Hephner said today no members of the club known as "Cam Busters" were involved in the incident.

A Spendocrat Is Where You Find Him

The state of Michigan is taking unusual steps to correct what its governor calls a "totally unfair and one-sided picture" of its financial situation.

It has sent to newspapers a forthright explanation of its troubles, and the explanation throws a good deal of light on the troubles.

Michigan wants it officially known the troubles are not to be blamed wholly on the administration of Gov. C. Mennen Williams, if at all.

"Michigan's current financial problems," says the official statement, "are the result of 12 years of refusal on the part of the state legislature to raise taxes adequate to meet appropriations and other commitments. During this entire period the legislature has been dominated by Republicans in both houses."

The explanation goes on to say that state government in Michigan must give five-sixths of its sales tax revenue to schools, cities and townships and this is why its state government is broke and needs new taxes.

Gov. Williams and his Republican predecessor, Kim Sigler, both have warned Michigan legislators they must increase tax revenues to maintain the services they have agreed to support. But the legislators have been reluctant to break the bad news to taxpayers, because it has not been fashionable in politics in recent years to break bad news to taxpayers. The truth is that it hasn't been safe, either. People who have been conned into believing what they get from the state capital and from Washington is free are in no mood to feel friendly about bill collectors.

THIS IS the problem. It is not partisan. A Spendocrat is where you find him, in either political party, or in no political party at all.

There are more Democratic Spendocrats than Republican Spendocrats, however, because there are more Democrats in office and many of them got there by promising to give away more than their opponent promised to give away. Moreover, the modern Democratic party gained its momentum under Franklin D. Roosevelt, the great pump-primer, and most of its spokesmen are still relying on the creed of "Go ahead and spend it. We'll add it to the debt, which is nothing but money we owe ourselves."

But there are Republican Spendocrats, too. It is not a partisan matter.

It is, rather, a state of mind that makes it seem logical and even farsighted to keep the taxing hand from knowing what the spending hand is doing—to make it appear that there is no connection between one and the other. And what is happening currently is that the sleepwalkers are being jarred awake by unpleasant realities like unpaid bills, reluctance to buy public bonds and bare cash drawers.

There is no way under the sun to wriggle out of commitments already made; spending cannot be turned off like a water faucet.

THE ALTERNATIVE is to make legislators bite the bullet and raise taxes to pay for what they have voted to spend. It is not popular, however, for them to break the bad news to people who thought the money was free if it came from Washington, Lansing, or perhaps Columbus, if they lived in Ohio.

Money is never free. Someone must pay for it one way or another, either in taxes or inflation or both. That is the rude awakening of 1959. Michigan, where things got further out of hand than they did in some places, has a worse hangover, that's all.

That is why Michigan has been pointed to as a horrible example. But everybody else was on a binge, too—Washington most of all.

SUB In Ohio Not A Closed Issue

In statements by its backers, SUB would appear to be a closed issue in Ohio because the General Assembly finally has brought the law into line with an agreement between certain unions and employers.

Its backers imply that this carries out the will of the majority, which is to make supplemental unemployment benefits payable to unemployed wage earners throughout the state. But there is not in fact any such thing as a known will of the majority on this arrangement. The only time it was involved in a vote, in 1955, the majority voted overwhelmingly the other way.

The vast majority of Ohio workers are not under contracts that bestow on them a privilege of collecting supplemental money, if they are unemployed, that workers can collect under SUB contracts. There are less than a quarter of a million of SUB workers in a total of more than two and a quarter million Ohio workers.

The vast majority of Ohio employers are not parties to contracts of this kind. They never would have considered making such contracts, unless they had been forced into a corner by the coercive power of labor unions, because the contracts were of dubious legality, just as it is a move of dubious legality now to clear them up with an ex post facto law.

Nevertheless, that is what the General Assembly had set out to do and now has done. The specific question about SUB has been answered; the money in fund can be paid out to its claimants.

But the issue of SUB in general has not been closed. Every Ohio worker and every Ohio employer now has a vital interest in threshing it out. Included among those who will start threshing, moreover, are some SUB employers and employes who never shared the enthusiasm they were supposed to feel about an experiment in unemployment relief that has not caused any enthusiasm even in those places where its legality was not under a cloud.

There is no majority for SUB in Ohio, only a determined minority.

Matter Of Judgment

Duncan Hines did very well with an idea as old as the problems that are common to all travelers.

They need a way to find out where the best accommodations are. They want to be reassured that the food and lodging which await them will be satisfactory.

There had been a thousand ways developed to get the information before Duncan Hines' guides came into existence — and all of them, no doubt, are still in use.

Other travelers always are asked where they ate and slept well. Policemen are asked to recommend restaurants. Filling station attendants are quizzed about the quality of lodgings.

One of the most fallacious ideas ever loosed on the public — that truck drivers always patronize restaurants that make good coffee —is still at large.

Individuals have their own standards of appraisal, such as decor and the presence or absence of pomp. Many a restaurant that would be put to it to stay in business has flourished after the addition of a few uniformed flunkeys.

All that Duncan Hines did was to systematize the information that people seek when they go traveling. He established the idea that if the food and lodging had been good enough for him to certify it, the next traveler would not be disappointed.

In an era of uncertainties that threaten to turn existence into a hopeless gamble, he created areas of certainty. His idea had the beauty of simplicity, as all good ideas do. Wherever he left his mark, he created confidence because his judgment in the past had been good and must remain good in the future to make it saleable.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Imaginary dialogue between Ike and Mac in that mountain retreat:

Mac: In a way this is a summit meeting.

Ike: We get the altitude without the double-talk and walkouts.

Mac: Isn't this where Roosevelt and Churchill once met?

Ike: Yes. That was away back when we thought we had won the war. What do you really think of Khrushchev?

Mac: I wouldn't want to use that kind of language even in the deep woods. Even if he was good I wouldn't like him.

Ike: Do you think he wants war?

Mac: He seems determined to get it if it takes his last peace speech.

Ike: How was your Russian reception?

Mac: It was as cordial as Soviet animosity could make it, with or without toothaches.

Ike: Can we depend on NATO?

Mac: If I didn't think so I'd never admit it. We must play our cards right.

Ike: But how can we play cards with a fellow who deals in the dark, says, "I'll play these" before he looks at his hand and takes all the kings and queens out of the deck?

Mac: How are you finding congressional support?

Ike: Compared to what I am experiencing the channel crossing was a canoe trip.

Mac: How is Mr. Dulles?

Ike: He is recovering so fast and showing such inspiring courage I'm amazed Moscow hasn't denounced radium treatments.

Mac: Don't worry. It will!

Remember away back when the theater was largely a place for a pleasant evening, with sweetness predominant. Now there are so many plays on ugly, morbid, sordid and repulsive subjects you can get acidosis just strolling through Broadway. Why will playgoers spend $8 for an evening with theater characters they wouldn't give a nickel for offstage?

There are so many weather forecasts on airwaves that you can get a choice of weather by merely tuning out of one into another. Glamor gals are forecasting on TV. They get the nod over male prophets because if a cute doll is predicting a blizzard it seems less terrorizing. You can concentrate on her big blue eyes all through her stuff about bad weather. Labor Secretary May Quit

By Victor Riesel

By the time the President throws out the first ball there may be other activity in the White House bull pen. Scouts report that the old Eisenhower team is about to lose its best "left" hander —namely U. S. Secretary of Labor Jim Mitchell.

Victor Riesel

Not only does he no longer wish to run for vice president in 1960 but Mr. Mitchell wants out as secretary of labor.

He wants to quit the Cabinet because of what some of his friends now call Mitchell's migraine. He has so many headaches he doesn't know whether he can take another season — the last one before the presidential election.

To Jim Mitchell, the season is a nightmare of called strikes. For the most part he tries to avert the big ones — usually by lining up with his friends inside labor. But this season he just won't be permitted to do that.

On basic labor policy, Mitchell can no longer talk for the White House. And unless he can do just that behind the doors which must close on conferences at which the labor - management crises are settled, he will have no influence.

THE DECISION has been made by President Eisenhower. The "line" on labor has hardened. Labor leaders called it the Eisenhower - Summerfield - Nixon line. It will be held through the '60 campaign.

It is a decision made by practical men who say that they gave Jim Mitchell "many" years to woo labor — or at least to get the union chiefs to ease their attacks on the White House.

Holders of the line say Mitchell failed. They don't blame him. They're just saying that if the labor leaders want a showdown, they can have it.

Insiders, for example, point to the coming steel crisis. The White House is opposed to the Steelworkers' heavy demands for a billion dollar contract increase.

The administration will not permit Jim Mitchell to do what he was asked to do during the last steel strike back in 1956.

The strike, which began when men poured out of the mills the first day of July, appeared as if it would run into August. Sometime towards the end of July, Clifford Hood, president of the U. S. Steel Corp., answered a phone call from a friend of Jim Mitchell.

Mr. Hood was told the labor secretary wanted the strike ended. Mr. Mitchell would like to see Mr. Hood personally. The appointment was made.

THE BIG STEEL executive was told by Jim Mitchell that he had just spoken to the President. The administration wanted the men back — and by the following weekend. When Mr. Hood protested that he was not the strike leader, but the struck leader, it was suggested that the White House would appreciate some concessions. The walkout had to end. It did.

This year appears to be bringing with it another steel crisis. With the change in White House attitude — brought on by its eagerness to keep wages and prices level — Mitchell will not be asked to pressure the industry. Indeed, he may find himself being told that the White House would prefer that Dave McDonald's United Steelworkers be pressured.

This the labor secretary would not like to do. He is opposed to the "hard" line. Reports are that he finds himself swinging more and more towards the friendlier policy of that other contender for the Republican nomination — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

MR. ROCKEFELLER has been consulting his state's labor leaders. When he was ready to push what will be the first anti-racketeering labor law, the governor conferred with New York's AFL-CIO leaders.

Then Rockefeller invited special AFL-CIO ethical practices counsel, Art Goldberg and several other lawyers to discuss the draft with him personally for some two hours in Albany. They debated. But all left satisfied that the other side was friendly.

This is more to Jim Mitchell's liking. That's why he wants to quit the national team — and will soon enough.

Letter To The Editor

Due to much criticism and bad publicity, the members of Trades Council instructed me to enlighten the public in general relative to a few facts.

First of all, Trades Council never refused to attend any of the meetings scheduled by a member of City Council.

The first meeting called by City Council was scheduled for Jan. 7. As secretary, I received a letter requesting Trades Council attend. I presented the letter on the floor of a regular Trades Council meeting and the delegates went on record to postpone their regular meeting, also scheduled for Jan. 7, in order to be able to attend the meeting at Westgate School.

Suddenly, the open meeting scheduled by City Council at Westgate was canceled.

A few weeks later the City Council member called another meeting to be held on a Thursday night. Again Trades Council received an invitation to attend. Immediately upon receiving this letter, I phoned to inform him the president of Trades Council and I could not attend meetings scheduled for Thursday or Tuesday nights due to working on these nights.

I was informed that more meetings would be scheduled, and on a night when the president of Trades Council and I could attend. Another meeting was called, but it was scheduled on a Thursday night.

During the course of this meeting held at City Hall, some of those present wanted to know why Trades Council was not represented.

If the City Council member who extended the invitations had been fair - minded, he would have revealed the reason as to why Trades Council was not represented and a lot of undue criticism and publicity could have been eliminated.

Trades and Labor Council has been accused of preventing progress. If the people will remember, Trades Council was not the only organization that failed to attend and participate in the meetings called for the purpose of discussing the city's future.

Trades Council possesses a nice membership, but does not consist of the 1,800 who spoke out at the Nov. 4 election requesting that our city lawmakers proceed in a democratic way and let the people vote on the income tax.

If our City Council had proceeded in a democratic fashion at first, it could be that the city income tax would not now be an issue and our city could be progressing.

Once again, I repeat: Let the voters decide if East Liverpool is to progress.

I read in The Review where someone remarked that the city has not progressed in more than 40 years. True enough, but will the time involved between now and the next November election matter so much that we will gain what was lost in over 40 years?

Democratic Senator Hits At Spending

If you're one of the "spenders" in Congress and you ridicule the idea of a balanced budget, you get plenty of attention. But if you're a "saver" and want to keep the American dollar from being forced down to a value of 10 cents, then you're old-fashioned and not in tune with the times.

David Lawrence

Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia happens to be chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. He also happens to be a member of the Democratic party, so many of whose members are trying to make a virtue of bigger and bigger spending by government. Yet, when he spoke Tuesday night at the National Taxpayers Conference in Washington, his words got scant attention.

"Contrary to general understanding," Sen. Byrd said, "recent great increases in federal spending have not been for defense or foreign aid. The tremendous increases have been for domestic - civilian programs."

This alone seems to be a worthwhile piece of news. For, in the speeches emanating from Capitol Hill, President Eisenhower is repeatedly being accused of trying to balance the budget at the expense of national defense in the battle against the Communists.

THE PURPOSE of the crusade for more spending is, of course, to break the faith of the public in budget-balancing by using defense as an excuse, so that all sorts of subsidies and grants can be made in the guise of social reform.

The Virginia Senator says: "Since 1954 expenditures outside of defense, atomic energy, and foreign aid categories increased from $19,100,000,000 to 34 billion estimated in the current year.

"This is an increase of $14,900,000,000, or 78 per cent. There is terrific pressure in the current session of Congress for enactment of more non - essential spending programs. Almost invariably these new spending programs involve multi-year or permanent commitments for heavy spending in the future.

"Much of the domestic - civilian spending is for subsidies — and by subsidies I mean nearly all kinds of loans, grants and payments out of the federal treasury to special beneficiaries. Many of these subsidy programs are bottomless pits for federal spending and contribute to sky-high inflation.

"The federal government of the United States cannot now pay its bills except by increasing debt and inflation. Revenue at present tax rates does not meet our commitments.

"INTEREST on the federal debt is taking approximately one-tenth of all taxes collected.

"Chronic inflation has reduced the purchasing power of our money 52 per cent. The American dollar is now worth 48 cents by the 1939 index.

"Inflation destroys fixed incomes, provident investment, prudent business, sound financing, national security and democratic government.

"More than 20 years of destructive inflation in this country to date have led to continual demands for increased federal subsidization.

"The federal government is now subsidizing business, industry, private finance, agriculture, transportation, power, health, education, states, localities, individuals, etc.

"By the process of cheapening our money and centralizing power in the federal government, we have descended to a level of state socialism which is obvious, if not admitted.

"Social democracy is a subterfuge for sound government and constructive enterprise. Its evils are historically documented wherever nations have stooped to it. . .

"When governments become insolvent, their money becomes worthless and they go through a revolution wringer.

"The nature and process of the revolutions may vary but invariably the form of government is changed. There is no reason to think free enterprise democracy as we have known it could survive."

SEN. BYRD said that he concedes the necessity for deficits in extreme emergencies but that in its first 150 years America met its emergencies and then promptly restored sound financing, balanced the budget and began paying off debt.

He points out that nearly 40 million persons are getting direct payments from the federal treasury this year and that, with their families, this could reach a number equal to half the population of the United States.

He appeals to his colleagues in Congress to stop the spending. He says that "cynics advocate more inflation to produce more revenue but it increases the cost of everything the government buys."

The Virginia senator adds: "The situation will continue to grow worse unless there is drastic action in the immediate future."

This plea by the chairman of the Senate Finance Committee — who, though a Democrat, supports the President's efforts to balance the budget — is significant news.

100 Per Cent Plus

By Truman Twill

Except for a few details that are unaccounted for, the lambing that began a month ago is all over for another year.

The missing details are embarrassing.

They are an indeterminate number of potential mothers. It always happens this way.

The slip of paper on which tally is kept sooner or later is lost or neglected. This year it was neglected.

Somewhere between the barn door and the back door a distraction occurred that caused several birthings not to be registered. In one tally, the number of births relative to mothers is registered. That shows how many births are still to be expected. In another tally, the number of births relative to lambs is registered — single, double etc. That shows how many lambs have arrived.

But when the lambs were actually counted, there were more than the tally total, despite the fact one had died and one was put out for adoption. And the lamb tally and the mother tally were hopelessly out of gear. So it's highly indeterminate, but in all probability there will be no more tension from now on.

Tension? Over a lamb?

Well, the temperature is on zero. A new lamb is born in a cold barn. Or the temperature is 15 above zero, the wind is blowing a gale and there's a brand-new set of twins. Or when you get home at dusk a mother is standing over a new lamb on a hillside, and it will be dark in another five minutes.

You bear down. You feel challenged. You do things with towels and heat lamps you would not have believed possible before you did them the first time.

In pinches, you do things with warm milk and baby bottles you didn't expect to do again, too. You find yourself talking like an old counselor to mothers that know what they are doing and gritting unspeakable insults to crazy females that never were fit to be mothers in the first place and in the second place you'd like to kill 'em in their tracks if they weren't so dumb in the first place they wouldn't know why you were mad in the second place.

But finally it tapers off and almost all the lambs have been born again. You look at the little devils asleep in daisy chains along the wall, on their mothers' backs and alongside tufts of grass in the meadow and you feel good about it.

You watch them race and leap, get panicky when their mothers wander off and forget them temporarily, eat their innocent heads off and grow like thistles and you suspect there may be other things people do that aren't any more fun than being a weekend sheepherder.

Your back is aching, the sheep smell will be in your clothes forever, you feel bad about the lambs you lost and you worry about the dopey ones that do not come up to standard — but for a month there were no dull moments.

You always knew what you were going to do next, if you could spare the time. You were going to make a stab at straightening out the chaos in the sheepfold, where suddenly the census had gone up more than 100 per cent. Last year it went up 200 per cent — nothing but twins — but that was once in a lifetime.

Anything over 100 per cent is good enough to mention with pride.

IQ ratings designate that those persons with IQ's under 25 are in the idiot class; imbeciles are 25 to 50; morons, 50 to 70; "borderline" cases have an IQ of 70 to 80; "dull" mentality is in the 80 to 90 category. From 90 to 110 is normal; 110 to 120 is superior; 120 to 140 is very superior. And above 140 is "genius" — meaning the top-ranking persons in a technical sense, and not meaning that the persons are actually geniuses.

A Spendocrat Is Where You Find Him

The state of Michigan is taking unusual steps to correct what its governor calls a "totally unfair and one-sided picture" of its financial situation.

It has sent to newspapers a forthright explanation of its troubles, and the explanation throws a good deal of light on the troubles.

Michigan wants it officially known the troubles are not to be blamed wholly on the administration of Gov. C. Mennen Williams, if at all.

"Michigan's current financial problems," says the official statement, "are the result of 12 years of refusal on the part of the state legislature to raise taxes adequate to meet appropriations and other commitments. During this entire period the legislature has been dominated by Republicans in both houses."

The explanation goes on to say that state government in Michigan must give five-sixths of its sales tax revenue to schools, cities and townships and this is why its state government is broke and needs new taxes.

Gov. Williams and his Republican predecessor, Kim Sigler, both have warned Michigan legislators they must increase tax revenues to maintain the services they have agreed to support. But the legislators have been reluctant to break the bad news to taxpayers, because it has not been fashionable in politics in recent years to break bad news to taxpayers. The truth is that it hasn't been safe, either. People who have been conned into believing what they get from the state capital and from Washington is free are in no mood to feel friendly about bill collectors.

THIS IS the problem. It is not partisan. A Spendocrat is where you find him, in either political party, or in no political party at all.

There are more Democratic Spendocrats than Republican Spendocrats, however, because there are more Democrats in office and many of them got there by promising to give away more than their opponent promised to give away. Moreover, the modern Democratic party gained its momentum under Franklin D. Roosevelt, the great pump-primer, and most of its spokesmen are still relying on the creed of "Go ahead and spend it. We'll add it to the debt, which is nothing but money we owe ourselves."

But there are Republican Spendocrats, too. It is not a partisan matter.

It is, rather, a state of mind that makes it seem logical and even farsighted to keep the taxing hand from knowing what the spending hand is doing—to make it appear that there is no connection between one and the other. And what is happening currently is that the sleepwalkers are being jarred awake by unpleasant realities like unpaid bills, reluctance to buy public bonds and bare cash drawers.

There is no way under the sun to wriggle out of commitments already made; spending cannot be turned off like a water faucet.

THE ALTERNATIVE is to make legislators bite the bullet and raise taxes to pay for what they have voted to spend. It is not popular, however, for them to break the bad news to people who thought the money was free if it came from Washington, Lansing, or perhaps Columbus, if they lived in Ohio.

Money is never free. Someone must pay for it one way or another, either in taxes or inflation or both. That is the rude awakening of 1959. Michigan, where things got further out of hand than they did in some places, has a worse hangover, that's all.

That is why Michigan has been pointed to as a horrible example. But everybody else was on a binge, too—Washington most of all.

SUB In Ohio Not A Closed Issue

In statements by its backers, SUB would appear to be a closed issue in Ohio because the General Assembly finally has brought the law into line with an agreement between certain unions and employers.

Its backers imply that this carries out the will of the majority, which is to make supplemental unemployment benefits payable to unemployed wage earners throughout the state. But there is not in fact any such thing as a known will of the majority on this arrangement. The only time it was involved in a vote, in 1955, the majority voted overwhelmingly the other way.

The vast majority of Ohio workers are not under contracts that bestow on them a privilege of collecting supplemental money, if they are unemployed, that workers can collect under SUB contracts. There are less than a quarter of a million of SUB workers in a total of more than two and a quarter million Ohio workers.

The vast majority of Ohio employers are not parties to contracts of this kind. They never would have considered making such contracts, unless they had been forced into a corner by the coercive power of labor unions, because the contracts were of dubious legality, just as it is a move of dubious legality now to clear them up with an ex post facto law.

Nevertheless, that is what the General Assembly had set out to do and now has done. The specific question about SUB has been answered; the money in fund can be paid out to its claimants.

But the issue of SUB in general has not been closed. Every Ohio worker and every Ohio employer now has a vital interest in threshing it out. Included among those who will start threshing, moreover, are some SUB employers and employes who never shared the enthusiasm they were supposed to feel about an experiment in unemployment relief that has not caused any enthusiasm even in those places where its legality was not under a cloud.

There is no majority for SUB in Ohio, only a determined minority.

Matter Of Judgment

Duncan Hines did very well with an idea as old as the problems that are common to all travelers.

They need a way to find out where the best accommodations are. They want to be reassured that the food and lodging which await them will be satisfactory.

There had been a thousand ways developed to get the information before Duncan Hines' guides came into existence — and all of them, no doubt, are still in use.

Other travelers always are asked where they ate and slept well. Policemen are asked to recommend restaurants. Filling station attendants are quizzed about the quality of lodgings.

One of the most fallacious ideas ever loosed on the public — that truck drivers always patronize restaurants that make good coffee —is still at large.

Individuals have their own standards of appraisal, such as decor and the presence or absence of pomp. Many a restaurant that would be put to it to stay in business has flourished after the addition of a few uniformed flunkeys.

All that Duncan Hines did was to systematize the information that people seek when they go traveling. He established the idea that if the food and lodging had been good enough for him to certify it, the next traveler would not be disappointed.

In an era of uncertainties that threaten to turn existence into a hopeless gamble, he created areas of certainty. His idea had the beauty of simplicity, as all good ideas do. Wherever he left his mark, he created confidence because his judgment in the past had been good and must remain good in the future to make it saleable.

The Once Over

Imaginary dialogue between Ike and Mac in that mountain retreat:

Mac: In a way this is a summit meeting.

Ike: We get the altitude without the double-talk and walkouts.

Mac: Isn't this where Roosevelt and Churchill once met?

Ike: Yes. That was away back when we thought we had won the war. What do you really think of Khrushchev?

Mac: I wouldn't want to use that kind of language even in the deep woods. Even if he was good I wouldn't like him.

Ike: Do you think he wants war?

Mac: He seems determined to get it if it takes his last peace speech.

Ike: How was your Russian reception?

Mac: It was as cordial as Soviet animosity could make it, with or without toothaches.

Ike: Can we depend on NATO?

Mac: If I didn't think so I'd never admit it. We must play our cards right.

Ike: But how can we play cards with a fellow who deals in the dark, says, "I'll play these" before he looks at his hand and takes all the kings and queens out of the deck?

Mac: How are you finding congressional support?

Ike: Compared to what I am experiencing the channel crossing was a canoe trip.

Mac: How is Mr. Dulles?

Ike: He is recovering so fast and showing such inspiring courage I'm amazed Moscow hasn't denounced radium treatments.

Mac: Don't worry. It will!

Labor Secretary May Quit

By Victor Riesel

By the time the President throws out the first ball there may be other activity in the White House bull pen. Scouts report that the old Eisenhower team is about to lose its best "left" hander —namely U. S. Secretary of Labor Jim Mitchell.

Victor Riesel

Not only does he no longer wish to run for vice president in 1960 but Mr. Mitchell wants out as secretary of labor.

He wants to quit the Cabinet because of what some of his friends now call Mitchell's migraine. He has so many headaches he doesn't know whether he can take another season — the last one before the presidential election.

To Jim Mitchell, the season is a nightmare of called strikes. For the most part he tries to avert the big ones — usually by lining up with his friends inside labor. But this season he just won't be permitted to do that.

On basic labor policy, Mitchell can no longer talk for the White House. And unless he can do just that behind the doors which must close on conferences at which the labor - management crises are settled, he will have no influence.

THE DECISION has been made by President Eisenhower. The "line" on labor has hardened. Labor leaders called it the Eisenhower - Summerfield - Nixon line. It will be held through the '60 campaign.

It is a decision made by practical men who say that they gave Jim Mitchell "many" years to woo labor — or at least to get the union chiefs to ease their attacks on the White House.

Holders of the line say Mitchell failed. They don't blame him. They're just saying that if the labor leaders want a showdown, they can have it.

Insiders, for example, point to the coming steel crisis. The White House is opposed to the Steelworkers' heavy demands for a billion dollar contract increase.

The administration will not permit Jim Mitchell to do what he was asked to do during the last steel strike back in 1956.

The strike, which began when men poured out of the mills the first day of July, appeared as if it would run into August. Sometime towards the end of July, Clifford Hood, president of the U. S. Steel Corp., answered a phone call from a friend of Jim Mitchell.

Mr. Hood was told the labor secretary wanted the strike ended. Mr. Mitchell would like to see Mr. Hood personally. The appointment was made.

THE BIG STEEL executive was told by Jim Mitchell that he had just spoken to the President. The administration wanted the men back — and by the following weekend. When Mr. Hood protested that he was not the strike leader, but the struck leader, it was suggested that the White House would appreciate some concessions. The walkout had to end. It did.

This year appears to be bringing with it another steel crisis. With the change in White House attitude — brought on by its eagerness to keep wages and prices level — Mitchell will not be asked to pressure the industry. Indeed, he may find himself being told that the White House would prefer that Dave McDonald's United Steelworkers be pressured.

This the labor secretary would not like to do. He is opposed to the "hard" line. Reports are that he finds himself swinging more and more towards the friendlier policy of that other contender for the Republican nomination — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

"When governments become insolvent, their money becomes worthless and they go through a revolution wringer.

"The nature and process of the revolutions may vary but invariably the form of government is changed. There is no reason to think free enterprise democracy as we have known it could survive."

SEN. BYRD said that he concedes the necessity for deficits in extreme emergencies but that in its first 150 years America met its emergencies and then promptly restored sound financing, balanced the budget and began paying off debt.

He points out that nearly 40 million persons are getting direct payments from the federal treasury this year and that, with their families, this could reach a number equal to half the population of the United States.

He appeals to his colleagues in Congress to stop the spending. He says that "cynics advocate more inflation to produce more revenue but it increases the cost of everything the government buys."

The Virginia senator adds: "The situation will continue to grow worse unless there is drastic action in the immediate future."

This plea by the chairman of the Senate Finance Committee — who, though a Democrat, supports the President's efforts to balance the budget — is significant news.

100 Per Cent Plus

By Truman Twill

Except for a few details that are unaccounted for, the lambing that began a month ago is all over for another year.

The missing details are embarrassing.

They are an indeterminate number of potential mothers. It always happens this way.

The slip of paper on which tally is kept sooner or later is lost or neglected. This year it was neglected.

Somewhere between the barn door and the back door a distraction occurred that caused several birthings not to be registered. In one tally, the number of births relative to mothers is registered. That shows how many births are still to be expected. In another tally, the number of births relative to lambs is registered — single, double etc. That shows how many lambs have arrived.

But when the lambs were actually counted, there were more than the tally total, despite the fact one had died and one was put out for adoption. And the lamb tally and the mother tally were hopelessly out of gear. So it's highly indeterminate, but in all probability there will be no more tension from now on.

Tension? Over a lamb?

Well, the temperature is on zero. A new lamb is born in a cold barn. Or the temperature is 15 above zero, the wind is blowing a gale and there's a brand-new set of twins. Or when you get home at dusk a mother is standing over a new lamb on a hillside, and it will be dark in another five minutes.

You bear down. You feel challenged. You do things with towels and heat lamps you would not have believed possible before you did them the first time.

In pinches, you do things with warm milk and baby bottles you didn't expect to do again, too. You find yourself talking like an old counselor to mothers that know what they are doing and gritting unspeakable insults to crazy females that never were fit to be mothers in the first place and in the second place you'd like to kill 'em in their tracks if they weren't so dumb in the first place they wouldn't know why you were mad in the second place.

But finally it tapers off and almost all the lambs have been born again. You look at the little devils asleep in daisy chains along the wall, on their mothers' backs and alongside tufts of grass in the meadow and you feel good about it.

You watch them race and leap, get panicky when their mothers wander off and forget them temporarily, eat their innocent heads off and grow like thistles and you suspect there may be other things people do that aren't any more fun than being a weekend sheepherder.

Your back is aching, the sheep smell will be in your clothes forever, you feel bad about the lambs you lost and you worry about the dopey ones that do not come up to standard — but for a month there were no dull moments.

You always knew what you were going to do next, if you could spare the time. You were going to make a stab at straightening out the chaos in the sheepfold, where suddenly the census had gone up more than 100 per cent. Last year it went up 200 per cent — nothing but twins — but that was once in a lifetime.

Anything over 100 per cent is good enough to mention with pride.

Odd Facts

IQ ratings designate that those persons with IQ's under 25 are in the idiot class; imbeciles are 25 to 50; morons, 50 to 70; "borderline" cases have an IQ of 70 to 80; "dull" mentality is in the 80 to 90 category. From 90 to 110 is normal; 110 to 120 is superior; 120 to 140 is very superior. And above 140 is "genius" — meaning the top-ranking persons in a technical sense, and not meaning that the persons are actually geniuses.

Children Of The Bible

HANANIAH

"Unto whom the prince of the eunuchs gave names: . . . and to Hananiah, of Shadrach . . ."

—Daniel 1:7

Young Hananiah was one of the companions of Daniel, taken captive by King Nebuchadnezzar's armies in Jerusalem, and carried back to Babylon to be trained as a page in the king's court.

It was a long, tiresome, and sometimes terrifying journey. Hananiah said many prayers for those of his countrymen who did not fare so well as he and his friends.

The Babylonian soldiers were often very cruel to the young Hebrews they had captured. Many were loaded with the spoils of war, which the Chaldean armies were taking back to their homeland. They took with them even the millstones and uprooted cedar trees of Jerusalem.

To further humiliate the Jews, their captors tore up the Torah scrolls upon which the sacred scriptures were written, made sacks of them and filled these with sand. Captive princes and sons of priests were made to carry them on the toilsome journey across the burning heat of the desert.

Sometimes, though, Hananiah could not help but turn his eyes from the miseries of his people to the strange sights that met his eyes as the long column of men wound across new lands.

When they came within view of Babylon, he stared at the fabulous city in unbelief. It stood on a vast plain, shimmering through the early morning sunlight like a mirage.

It was in the form of a perfect square, bounded by canals full of water. The great walls rose three-hundred feet into the air, so thick that they supported towers on top of them between which a chariot might be driven.

On the west side of the city was the great palace of Nebuchadnezzar. Its massive walls were decorated with huge sculptures of animals and men on horseback, one of them in the act of throwing a javelin at a leopard.

Not far from the palace was the most remarkable sight of all—the famous Hanging Gardens of Babylon.

They were planted in terraces which rose, one above another on huge arches, to form a kind of artificial mountain. The tiers were covered with beautiful trees and all kinds of plants and shrubs.

Hananiah could not help being excited as he entered the magnificent city, even though he was a foreign slave.

HUMANITY CALLING!

By Major William Murtaugh of The Salvation Army

"SOUND FORTH HIS PRAISES!"

"Serve the Lord with gladness, come before His presence with singing." Psalm 100:2

The Triumphal Entry of Christ into Jerusalem will be commemorated throughout all Christendom on Sunday.

Although a symphony depicting the Cavalcade of the Church would encompass a wide range of human struggle, including sorrow, tragedy, storm and tempest, joy and calm, victory and peace, the grand finale will be consummated with a triumphant note, bringing the assurance of ultimate victory over the world, the flesh and the devil.

It is appalling to observe the many who have "buried their talents", some by disuse, and some in worldly pursuits; talents to sing and "make music unto the Lord" that would aid the Christian church in its ministry of music. The Christian Church is a singing church, its music having charms that have won many lost souls to Christ.

The life estranged from God may only be able to sing "I've Got The Blues", but when that life is transferred by Christ, the new song is "I've Got The Joy"!

On this occasion we would like to urge you who are gifted with musical talent to use it to the honor and glory of God, and the salvation of souls. Your pastor or director of music will be happy to give you the opportunity to use your musical abilities to glorify God and bless your fellowbeings.

This week-end, The Ceramic Citadel Band is participating in a Music Councils in Cleveland where many Salvation Army Bandsmen and Songsters will convene to "Sound Forth His Praises". These groups represent weekly instruction classes in various Salvation Army centers, whose members participate in public, street and indoor religious services, and include boys and girls who are beginners, through all ages, and stages of musical accomplishment.

HANANIAH

"Unto whom the prince of the eunuchs gave names: . . . and to Hananiah, of Shadrach . . ."

—Daniel 1:7

Young Hananiah was one of the companions of Daniel, taken captive by King Nebuchadnezzar's armies in Jerusalem, and carried back to Babylon to be trained as a page in the king's court.

It was a long, tiresome, and sometimes terrifying journey. Hananiah said many prayers for those of his countrymen who did not fare so well as he and his friends.

The Babylonian soldiers were often very cruel to the young Hebrews they had captured. Many were loaded with the spoils of war, which the Chaldean armies were taking back to their homeland. They took with them even the millstones and uprooted cedar trees of Jerusalem.

To further humiliate the Jews, their captors tore up the Torah scrolls upon which the sacred scriptures were written, made sacks of them and filled these with sand. Captive princes and sons of priests were made to carry them on the toilsome journey across the burning heat of the desert.

Sometimes, though, Hananiah could not help but turn his eyes from the miseries of his people to the strange sights that met his eyes as the long column of men wound across new lands.

When they came within view of Babylon, he stared at the fabulous city in unbelief. It stood on a vast plain, shimmering through the early morning sunlight like a mirage.

It was in the form of a perfect square, bounded by canals full of water. The great walls rose three-hundred feet into the air, so thick that they supported towers on top of them between which a chariot might be driven.

On the west side of the city was the great palace of Nebuchadnezzar. Its massive walls were decorated with huge sculptures of animals and men on horseback, one of them in the act of throwing a javelin at a leopard.

Not far from the palace was the most remarkable sight of all—the famous Hanging Gardens of Babylon.

They were planted in terraces which rose, one above another on huge arches, to form a kind of artificial mountain. The tiers were covered with beautiful trees and all kinds of plants and shrubs.

Hananiah could not help being excited as he entered the magnificent city, even though he was a foreign slave.

HUMANITY CALLING!

By Major William Murtaugh of The Salvation Army

"SOUND FORTH HIS PRAISES!"

"Serve the Lord with gladness, come before His presence with singing." Psalm 100:2

The Triumphal Entry of Christ into Jerusalem will be commemorated throughout all Christendom on Sunday.

Although a symphony depicting the Cavalcade of the Church would encompass a wide range of human struggle, including sorrow, tragedy, storm and tempest, joy and calm, victory and peace, the grand finale will be consummated with a triumphant note, bringing the assurance of ultimate victory over the world, the flesh and the devil.

It is appalling to observe the many who have "buried their talents", some by disuse, and some in worldly pursuits; talents to sing and "make music unto the Lord" that would aid the Christian church in its ministry of music. The Christian Church is a singing church, its music having charms that have won many lost souls to Christ.

The life estranged from God may only be able to sing "I've Got The Blues", but when that life is transferred by Christ, the new song is "I've Got The Joy"!

On this occasion we would like to urge you who are gifted with musical talent to use it to the honor and glory of God, and the salvation of souls. Your pastor or director of music will be happy to give you the opportunity to use your musical abilities to glorify God and bless your fellowbeings.

This week-end, The Ceramic Citadel Band is participating in a Music Councils in Cleveland where many Salvation Army Bandsmen and Songsters will convene to "Sound Forth His Praises". These groups represent weekly instruction classes in various Salvation Army centers, whose members participate in public, street and indoor religious services, and include boys and girls who are beginners, through all ages, and stages of musical accomplishment.

Missing Chapters In Jesus' Life Pondered At Eastertime

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

Every year about this time, when Christians more than ever are reminded of the life, death and resurrection of their Lord, curiosity arises about the missing chapters in the life of Jesus.

Since shortly after His death on the cross, men of both good and evil will have been lifting their pens and drawing liberally on their imaginations to satisfy that curiosity.

Their writings are part of a vast collection of literature called loosely the New Testament Apocrypha, or works which resemble New Testament scriptures in form but are considered to be canonically unacceptable.

New Testament Apocrypha can gain such a hold on curious people that only last week Dr. Oscar Cullman, visiting professor at Union Theological Seminary, prefaced a lecture on the Gospel of Thomas with a warning.

It is not a fifth Gospel, he emphasized. "Such a statement is insofar completely false, in that we have had for a long time apocryphal gospels, and not just one, but a great number."

The great number includes the Gospels of: The Nativity of Mary, Gamaliel, the Hebrews, the Egyptians, Peter, Philip, the 12 Apostles, Andrew, Barnabas, Thaddeus, Eve—and even Judas Iscariot.

The latest manuscript of the Gospel of Thomas, found in Egypt in 1946 and containing many sayings of Jesus, is an example of a type of apocryphal literature written not for the edification of the curious.

It was found in a library of the Gnostics, an early sect of unorthodox Christians who had the distressing habit of writing under the names of the apostles to further doctrines judged heretical.

Most of the apocryphal writings were set down in the early days of the church. Some were contemporary with the canonical Gospels. But others have turned out to be as modern as the typewriter.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Sunday is a special day for Sheila. She likes to go to church.

For one thing, the church is beautiful. Sheila likes to look at the soft light filtering through the colored glass windows. She likes the delicate scent of the beautiful flowers, and the majestic tones of the organ. She likes to sing, too, and she knows several hymns "all the way through," even without the hymnal to guide her.

She particularly likes this season because she knows that Palm Sunday is a time for special rejoicing in the Church.

Sheila feels the way she does because her parents have taught her that going to church is a privilege and a joy. Is Sunday just another day for your child, or is it—as it is for Sheila—a special day?

Missing Chapters In Jesus' Life Pondered At Eastertime

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

Every year about this time, when Christians more than ever are reminded of the life, death and resurrection of their Lord, curiosity arises about the missing chapters in the life of Jesus.

Since shortly after His death on the cross, men of both good and evil will have been lifting their pens and drawing liberally on their imaginations to satisfy that curiosity.

Their writings are part of a vast collection of literature called loosely the New Testament Apocrypha, or works which resemble New Testament scriptures in form but are considered to be canonically unacceptable.

New Testament Apocrypha can gain such a hold on curious people that only last week Dr. Oscar Cullman, visiting professor at Union Theological Seminary, prefaced a lecture on the Gospel of Thomas with a warning.

It is not a fifth Gospel, he emphasized. "Such a statement is insofar completely false, in that we have had for a long time apocryphal gospels, and not just one, but a great number."

The great number includes the Gospels of: The Nativity of Mary, Gamaliel, the Hebrews, the Egyptians, Peter, Philip, the 12 Apostles, Andrew, Barnabas, Thaddeus, Eve—and even Judas Iscariot.

The latest manuscript of the Gospel of Thomas, found in Egypt in 1946 and containing many sayings of Jesus, is an example of a type of apocryphal literature written not for the edification of the curious.

It was found in a library of the Gnostics, an early sect of unorthodox Christians who had the distressing habit of writing under the names of the apostles to further doctrines judged heretical.

Most of the apocryphal writings were set down in the early days of the church. Some were contemporary with the canonical Gospels. But others have turned out to be as modern as the typewriter.

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale

A Sound Formula: Think And Pray

Not long ago I had lunch with an inspiring friend of mine, the president of Prentice - Hall, Inc. the publishing house which issues my books. His name is John Powers and he has an interesting habit. He draws diagrams to illustrate points he is making. He draws them over all the paper he has with him, then, when he runs out of paper, he is likely to draw diagrams on the tablecloth. On this particular occasion, John drew a diagram for me which pictured a great big mountain, and, beside it, a man. The proportion between the mountain and the man was 25 to 1 in favor of the mountain.

Dr. Peale

—:—

THEN JOHN said: "This mountain, which represents a difficult problem, goes down deep into the earth and it goes way out wide to the right and way out wide to the left. This man is just an average fellow. The question is — How is this little man going to get on the other side of that huge mountain of a difficulty? How would you solve his problem?"

Well, I'm a so - called expert on solving other people's problems so I didn't hesitate a minute to say, "Oh, that's easy. He just goes around it — makes an end run or by - passes it."

"No," John said, "he can't. It goes too far in that direction."

"Well, then, he just goes round the other way — a left end run."

"He can't," John told me. "It goes out too far on that side as well."

I thought harder. "He'll crawl over the top of it."

John promptly corrected me. "It's too steep. He can't do it."

All right then," I responded, "he'll burrow down underneath."

"It's solid rock all the way down, too deep for a tunnel."

I remembered all the books and columns I'd written about always trying, trying again and said, "O.K., then, if he's really a good man, he will just haul off and plow right through it!".

"Ah," John answered, "it's too thick. He can't get through. It would beat him back. So, you see, we've reached an impasse.'

—:—

AT THIS point I was stumped and I asked John to tell me how the man could get beyond his mountain of a problem, if it was at all possible.

"Of course, there's a way," he assured me. "The answer is in that man's brain. What he must do is begin to think and begin to pray. When he does these he begins to grow. And he grows and grows until he is so tall in his mind that in effect he is taller than the mountain. He becomes bigger than the problem. Then instead of looking up at it in defeat, he looks down upon it in victory."

How right John is. A man's size depends not upon the height of his body but upon the size of his thinking. By right thinking he can make himself bigger than any difficulty.

That diagram which John Powers drew is one of the best answers to overcoming a problem I have ever heard. And it contains a simple technique that any one of us can apply effectively in our problem solving.

First, start thinking — really thinking. Most of the time we use only a small proportion of our brain power; the rest lies idle. Using your brain to a greater extent releases amazing new power and energy for attacking your problems.

Second, start praying — really praying. Prayer in depth brings a quietness and confidence that stimulates your brain to function at its best. In addition prayer gives access to Divine Guidance. Through it you are given God's answers to your problems.

So a problem - solving formula that gets real results may be stated in three words: think and pray. As you learn to use this formula, you will grow big enough to overcome any problem.

2 More Blasts Are Reported In Mill Strike

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP)—Two more explosions were reported in this city Friday night as Gov. Luther Hodges met with federal and state negotiators for discussions on a violence-filled, four-months-old cotton mill strike.

Said Hodges at the executive mansion in Raleigh: "I am encouraged that the bargaining meeting continues and I am urging that they come to an agreement at that time."

For the second straight night there were blasts at the vacant home of Garland C. Cash, a non-striker. Cash shot and wounded a man Sunday. He said the man was "trying to light something" outside the house.

Officials of the strike-bound Harriet-Henderson mills are considering a union counter proposal on one of the key issues of the dispute—arbitration.

Boyd Payton, Carolinas director of the Textile Workers Union of America, said the union offered to limit the number of cases which can be called to arbitration.

When the company refused to renew a 14-year-old arbitration clause in a new contract with the union, the TWUA's two Henderson locals walked out Nov. 17. Management reopened its two mills Feb. 16 on a one-shift basis.

32 Slim Students Cram Into Phone Booth For Record

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — Thirty-two slightly built students crammed themselves into a telephone booth on Modesto Junior College campus Friday and laid claim to a new silly season record.

The people-packing mark was set even as 20 ity bitty sophomores at St. Mary's College at Moraga, Calif., were boasting about their sardine act in a regulation booth, 32 by 32 by 84 inches.

That was the size of the booth used on the Modesto campus, but there was one difference. Here the booth was horizontal and it didn't contain a telephone.

Rod Underwood, one of the students who was in the middle of the pack, emerged looking slightly like a well-pressed tablecloth and commented: "I feel like a sardine, on the bottom of the can."

The quaint season opened two weeks ago when 15 students at England's Cambridge University wedged themselves into a 'phone booth.

Kent Executive Raps DiSalle Appropriation

CLEVELAND (AP) — A Kent State University executive says Ohio's state universities will have a difficult time retaining present faculty members and adding new ones under the appropriation Gov. Michael V. DiSalle is seeking for them from the state Legislature.

Dr. Robert I. White Jr., Kent's vice president for academic affairs, told Kent and Ohio State University alumni at a luncheon here Friday that faculty salaries have increased only eight per cent in purchasing power in the last 20 years. The governor has asked an increase of 11½ million dollars in the appropriation for the state schools, while the schools sought a boost of 20 million.

Confident Living

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale

A Sound Formula: Think And Pray

Not long ago I had lunch with an inspiring friend of mine, the president of Prentice - Hall, Inc. the publishing house which issues my books. His name is John Powers and he has an interesting habit. He draws diagrams to illustrate points he is making. He draws them over all the paper he has with him, then, when he runs out of paper, he is likely to draw diagrams on the tablecloth. On this particular occasion, John drew a diagram for me which pictured a great big mountain, and, beside it, a man. The proportion between the mountain and the man was 25 to 1 in favor of the mountain.

—:—

THEN JOHN said: "This mountain, which represents a difficult problem, goes down deep into the earth and it goes way out wide to the right and way out wide to the left. This man is just an average fellow. The question is — How is this little man going to get on the other side of that huge mountain of a difficulty? How would you solve his problem?"

Well, I'm a so - called expert on solving other people's problems so I didn't hesitate a minute to say, "Oh, that's easy. He just goes around it — makes an end run or by - passes it."

"No," John said, "he can't. It goes too far in that direction."

"Well, then, he just goes round the other way — a left end run."

"He can't," John told me. "It goes out too far on that side as well."

I thought harder. "He'll crawl over the top of it."

John promptly corrected me. "It's too steep. He can't do it."

All right then," I responded, "he'll burrow down underneath."

"It's solid rock all the way down, too deep for a tunnel."

I remembered all the books and columns I'd written about always trying, trying again and said, "O.K., then, if he's really a good man, he will just haul off and plow right through it!".

"Ah," John answered, "it's too thick. He can't get through. It would beat him back. So, you see, we've reached an impasse."

—:—

AT THIS point I was stumped and I asked John to tell me how the man could get beyond his mountain of a problem, if it was at all possible.

"Of course, there's a way," he assured me. "The answer is in that man's brain. What he must do is begin to think and begin to pray. When he does these he begins to grow. And he grows and grows until he is so tall in his mind that in effect he is taller than the mountain. He becomes bigger than the problem. Then instead of looking up at it in defeat, he looks down upon it in victory."

How right John is. A man's size depends not upon the height of his body but upon the size of his thinking. By right thinking he can make himself bigger than any difficulty.

That diagram which John Powers drew is one of the best answers to overcoming a problem I have ever heard. And it contains a simple technique that any one of us can apply effectively in our problem solving.

First, start thinking — really thinking. Most of the time we use only a small proportion of our brain power; the rest lies idle. Using your brain to a greater extent releases amazing new power and energy for attacking your problems.

Second, start praying — really praying. Prayer in depth brings a quietness and confidence that stimulates your brain to function at its best. In addition prayer gives access to Divine Guidance. Through it you are given God's answers to your problems.

So a problem - solving formula that gets real results may be stated in three words: think and pray. As you learn to use this formula, you will grow big enough to overcome any problem.

Six Indicted In Arms Case

Plane Was Taking Weapons To Castro

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — A federal grand jury Friday indicted six men in connection with a government seizure of arms being flown from Russelton, Pa., to Morgantown, W. Va. The weapons at the time they were confiscated, were reported by federal authorities to have been destined for the followers of Fidel Castro in the Cuban rebellion.

Listed as defendants were:

Norman Rothman of Surfaid, Fla; Stuart Sutor, Hialeah, Fla; Joseph Merola, Miami Beach, Fla; and Victor Carlucci, Daniel Hanna and Joseph Giordano all of New Kensington, Pa.

The government said that the contraband arms included equipment stolen from the National Guard Armory at Canton, Ohio.

The defendants were charged with conspiring to violate the U.S. code relating to transfer of firearms, and interstate transportation of stolen government property.

The indictment names Dr. Louis C. Pessalano, of Miami, Fla., as an unindicted co-conspirator. The grand jury's return did not explain his status.

The weapons were seized aboard the plane flown by Sutor after it landed at Morgantown, W. Va.

Carlucci and Hanna are accused of transporting the stolen arms in inter state commerce, receiving and concealing stolen arms, failing to register and pay tax for the transfer of firearms, and engaging in the business of exporting "arms' munitions and other implements of war" without having registered as required by law.

New Tax Law Slated For 1st Council Action

City Council is scheduled to meet in special session Monday night at 7:45 to give the first of three required readings to an ordinance fixing a municipal income tax rate that amounts to 60 cents on each $100 of earnings, profits, fees and other private and corporate income.

If the ordinance moves through the legislative mill on schedule, it will be considered again on Monday night, March 30, and be given final passage on Monday night, April 6.

City Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper said the proposed ordinance — except for the rate — virtually is identical to the legislation that was in effect for 6½ months in 1958 before voters repealed it at the November general election. Under the 1958 ordinance, the rate amounted to 80 cents on each $100 of income.

Although Council generally dispenses with "personal privilege" —remarks from the audience—at special sessions, an exception will be made at the meetings in which the tax law will be considered, President B. E. Warner said. The floor will be open to both sides for discussion, he said.

The president said he has not received any indication that either proponents or opponents of the legislation intend to send large delegations to argue for or against the legislation. When the former ordinance was enacted at a single meeting, nearly 100 attended and most of them took the floor to argue about the tax.

In another change from the former legislation, the proposed ordinance does not contain an emergency clause under which it would go into immediate effect. That leaves the way open for any group of citizens to circulate petitions calling for a referendum on the tax, which would be held at the November election.

If a referendum petition is filed, none of the tax will be collected pending a voters' decision at the polls. If there is no intervention, the ordinance would take effect 30 days after final passage and approval by Mayor Fred P. Lawrence.

The tax is designed to buttress the city's financial resources and provide funds for a $260,000-a-year program to better municipal services and undertake capital improvements.

Wellsville Youth Fined In Route 30 Collision

A Wellsville youth pleaded guilty to a charge of traveling too fast for conditions and was fined $10 and costs by Mrs. Rowena Bishop, Georgetown squire, following a traffic collision Friday at 8:30 p. m. on Route 30, a mile west of Laughlin Corners.

Kenneth E. Broadbent, 18, of 805 Wood St., Wellsville, driving a borrowed truck, was attempting to pass a string of traffic when Steve Sarajlija of Georgetown R. D. 1 in the head cars made a left turn at his home.

Broadbent's truck hit Sarajlija's auto in the rear, the Carnegie Barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police said.

Sarajlija and his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Sarajlija, 64, were treated at City Hospital. He suffered contusions of the chest and both knees. She received contusions of the legs and possible neck and back injury.

More Gains Reported In County's Sales Tax

Weekly sales tax collections in Columbiana County are continuing to outstrip the figures shown at the same time in early 1958, State Treasurer Joseph T. Ferguson reported today at Columbus.

Collections hit $33,769 for the week ending March 7, up $6,158 from the $26,611 shown in the same period last year, he said. The collections stand at $1,243,552 since the start of the current fiscal year last July 1, down $94,463 from the $1,338,015 shown in the corresponding period of the preceding fiscal year.

Statewide, the collections were up 19 per cent in the first week of March.

Six Indicted In Arms Case

Plane Was Taking Weapons To Castro

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — A federal grand jury Friday indicted six men in connection with a government seizure of arms being flown from Russelton, Pa., to Morgantown, W. Va. The weapons at the time they were confiscated, were reported by federal authorities to have been destined for the followers of Fidel Castro in the Cuban rebellion.

Listed as defendants were:

Norman Rothman of Surfaid, Fla; Stuart Sutor, Hialeah, Fla; Joseph Merola, Miami Beach, Fla; and Victor Carlucci, Daniel Hanna and Joseph Giordano all of New Kensington, Pa.

The government said that the contraband arms included equipment stolen from the National Guard Armory at Canton, Ohio.

The defendants were charged with conspiring to violate the U.S. code relating to transfer of firearms, and interstate transportation of stolen government property.

The indictment names Dr. Louis C. Pessalano, of Miami, Fla., as an unindicted co-conspirator. The grand jury's return did not explain his status.

The weapons were seized aboard the plane flown by Sutor after it landed at Morgantown, W. Va.

Carlucci and Hanna are accused of transporting the stolen arms in inter state commerce, receiving and concealing stolen arms, failing to register and pay tax for the transfer of firearms, and engaging in the business of exporting "arms' munitions and other implements of war" without having registered as required by law.

New Tax Law Slated For 1st Council Action

City Council is scheduled to meet in special session Monday night at 7:45 to give the first of three required readings to an ordinance fixing a municipal income tax rate that amounts to 60 cents on each $100 of earnings, profits, fees and other private and corporate income.

If the ordinance moves through the legislative mill on schedule, it will be considered again on Monday night, March 30, and be given final passage on Monday night, April 6.

City Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper said the proposed ordinance — except for the rate — virtually is identical to the legislation that was in effect for 6½ months in 1958 before voters repealed it at the November general election. Under the 1958 ordinance, the rate amounted to 80 cents on each $100 of income.

Although Council generally dispenses with "personal privilege" —remarks from the audience—at special sessions, an exception will be made at the meetings in which the tax law will be considered, President B. E. Warner said. The floor will be open to both sides for discussion, he said.

The president said he has not received any indication that either proponents or opponents of the legislation intend to send large delegations to argue for or against the legislation. When the former ordinance was enacted at a single meeting, nearly 100 attended and most of them took the floor to argue about the tax.

In another change from the former legislation, the proposed ordinance does not contain an emergency clause under which it would go into immediate effect. That leaves the way open for any group of citizens to circulate petitions calling for a referendum on the tax, which would be held at the November election.

If a referendum petition is filed, none of the tax will be collected pending a voters' decision at the polls. If there is no intervention, the ordinance would take effect 30 days after final passage and approval by Mayor Fred P. Lawrence.

The tax is designed to buttress the city's financial resources and provide funds for a $260,000-a-year program to better municipal services and undertake capital improvements.

Wellsville Youth Fined In Route 30 Collision

A Wellsville youth pleaded guilty to a charge of traveling too fast for conditions and was fined $10 and costs by Mrs. Rowena Bishop, Georgetown squire, following a traffic collision Friday at 8:30 p. m. on Route 30, a mile west of Laughlin Corners.

Kenneth E. Broadbent, 18, of 805 Wood St., Wellsville, driving a borrowed truck, was attempting to pass a string of traffic when Steve Sarajlija of Georgetown R. D. 1 in the head cars made a left turn at his home.

Broadbent's truck hit Sarajlija's auto in the rear, the Carnegie Barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police said.

Sarajlija and his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Sarajlija, 64, were treated at City Hospital. He suffered contusions of the chest and both knees. She received contusions of the legs and possible neck and back injury.

More Gains Reported In County's Sales Tax

Weekly sales tax collections in Columbiana County are continuing to outstrip the figures shown at the same time in early 1958, State Treasurer Joseph T. Ferguson reported today at Columbus.

Collections hit $33,769 for the week ending March 7, up $6,158 from the $26,611 shown in the same period last year, he said. The collections stand at $1,243,552 since the start of the current fiscal year last July 1, down $94,463 from the $1,338,015 shown in the corresponding period of the preceding fiscal year.

Statewide, the collections were up 19 per cent in the first week of March.

Salem To Battle Cleveland East Tech For Class AA Crown

Lynnwood Faces Edgerton For 'A'

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Cleveland East Tech vs Salem in Class AA, and Edgerton vs Lynnwood-Jacksontown in Class A.

That's the menu today for Ohio's anything-can-happen high school basketball championship finals at St. John Arena.

The finals are a many-angled feature.

For instance:

East Tech, with a 50-game winning streak, can become the third school in Class AA history to repeat for the crown—only Dayton Stivers and Middletown having done it previously.

Salem, by upsetting the Scarabs, can make Quaker coach Johnny Cabas the first Buckeye mentor to take both the big and little school titles. He won the smaller school laurels in 1947 with the colorful Columbiana Clippers.

This is the first time since 1927, when Kent State defeated Oberlin 20-16 with Cleveland Indian general manager Frank Lane as referee, that two teams from the populous Northeastern district have tangled in the big school payoff contest.

East Tech, as a 28th birthday present for coach John Broski, turned on the heat Friday night for a whopping 83-47 win over Toledo Scott. Salem came from behind to nip Middletown's rebuilt Middies 68-65—the second straight year the Butler County crew which boasts seven state championships has failed to get past the first round. The two Middie losses have been by a total of four points.

In Class A two Cinderella teams emerged as the finalists. Edgerton, from far up in the northwest corner of the state, trimmed Northwestern of Wayne County, the defending king and top-ranked club in the class, 58-51.

Lynnwood - Jacksontown, which passes from existence in June through a consolidation maneuver, ousted the last of the Class A unbeaten teams by halting fifth-ranked Salem Local of Champaign County 61-53. Salem Local was the third straight unbeaten team to fall before the Trojans, who had whipped Racine (22-0) and New Boston (27-0) in the Athens regional to get into the big show.

Should the Trojans take the title, an oddity pops up. The Jacksontown team was beaten in the race for the Licking County tournament title, but could erase that memory by turning back the speedy and tenacious Bulldogs. Jack Gill, who has guided the Lynnwood squad to the threshold of the throne room, is in his first year of coaching.

A crowd of 12,669 witnessed the Friday afternoon Class A games, and a capacity throng of 13,924 was on hand for the Class AA games.

The East Tech-Salem game is slated at 8 p.m. tonight and the Edgerton-Jacksontown fray at 2 p.m. East Tech has won 24 straight this year, and Salem has a 25-1 record—the only blot being a nine-point setback at the hands of East Tech in the season's fourth game. Cabas says his boys will avenge that loss and take the crown.

Cabas could credit Jim Lehwald, a 155-pound junior and the only substitute he used against Middletown, for Salem's presence in the finals. The youngster came in late in the third quarter, with the Quakers trailing 47-44. He hit a jump shot to make it 47-46. Then, with the count deadlocked at 50-50 and 18 seconds to go in the period, he banged in another two-pointer to send Salem out front to stay.

His two - pointer opened the fourth period, and he added two free throws with a minute to go to make it 67-59—too much of an edge for Middletown's late spurt to overcome.

Bob Grundish, a tousle-haired 155-pound senior, was the difference in the Edgerton win over Northwestern. He connected for 18 of Edgerton's 31 points in the last half, after the teams had hit the midway point deadlocked at 27-27. His 26-point total was tops for the Class A semi-finals.

Al Thrasher Salem Local's sterling shotmaker and rebounder, was as classy as anyone in the place as he garnered 22 points in losing to Lynnwood. He got 17 of his team's 27 first half points, but a collapsing zone defense hampered him in the second session.

Carl Holman and Jim Turner were the Lynnwood big guns with 19 and 18 points respectively.

Jim Stone, hitting from everywhere, paced East Tech to its one-sided win with 26 points, with all-Ohio Ken Glenn contributing 18. Only Ray Wolford, bespectacled center, was able to cope with the tall and talented Scarabs as he registered 17 points and picked off a flock of rebounds for Toledo Scott.

Four of Middletown's starters finished in double figures, headed by A. C. Mitchell's 16, but the Salem team's two 5-10 guards, Can Krichbaum and Dave Hunter, had 18 and 16 to offset the Middletown balance — and Lehwald's eight-point contribution ended the Middie magic.

Bradley Tangles With St. John's For NIT Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — Bradley went after its second National Invitation Tournament championship in three years today when the Peoria Braves met St. John's of New York. For their part, the Redmen were trying for an unprecedented third NIT title.

The experts rated the Madison Square Garden game, climax of the 22nd annual post-season basketball classic, a pick 'em affair.

The game will be televised nationally by NBC starting at 4 p.m. (EST).

And the rival coaches, Chuck Orsborn of Bradley and Joe Lapchick of St. John's, were extremely wary of each other.

Bradley whipped St. John's 71-66 early in the season, but both coaches tended to discount that result.

"Bradley isn't the same team now . . . it's a much better one," said Lapchick, whose Redmen came into the tourney unseeded and have won three games by a total of 39 points.

Bradley was top-seeded for the NIT and barely squeaked by NYU in Thursday night's semifinals after crushing Butler in its quarter-final opener. St. John's victories have been over Manhattan, third-seeded St. Bonaventure and Providence.

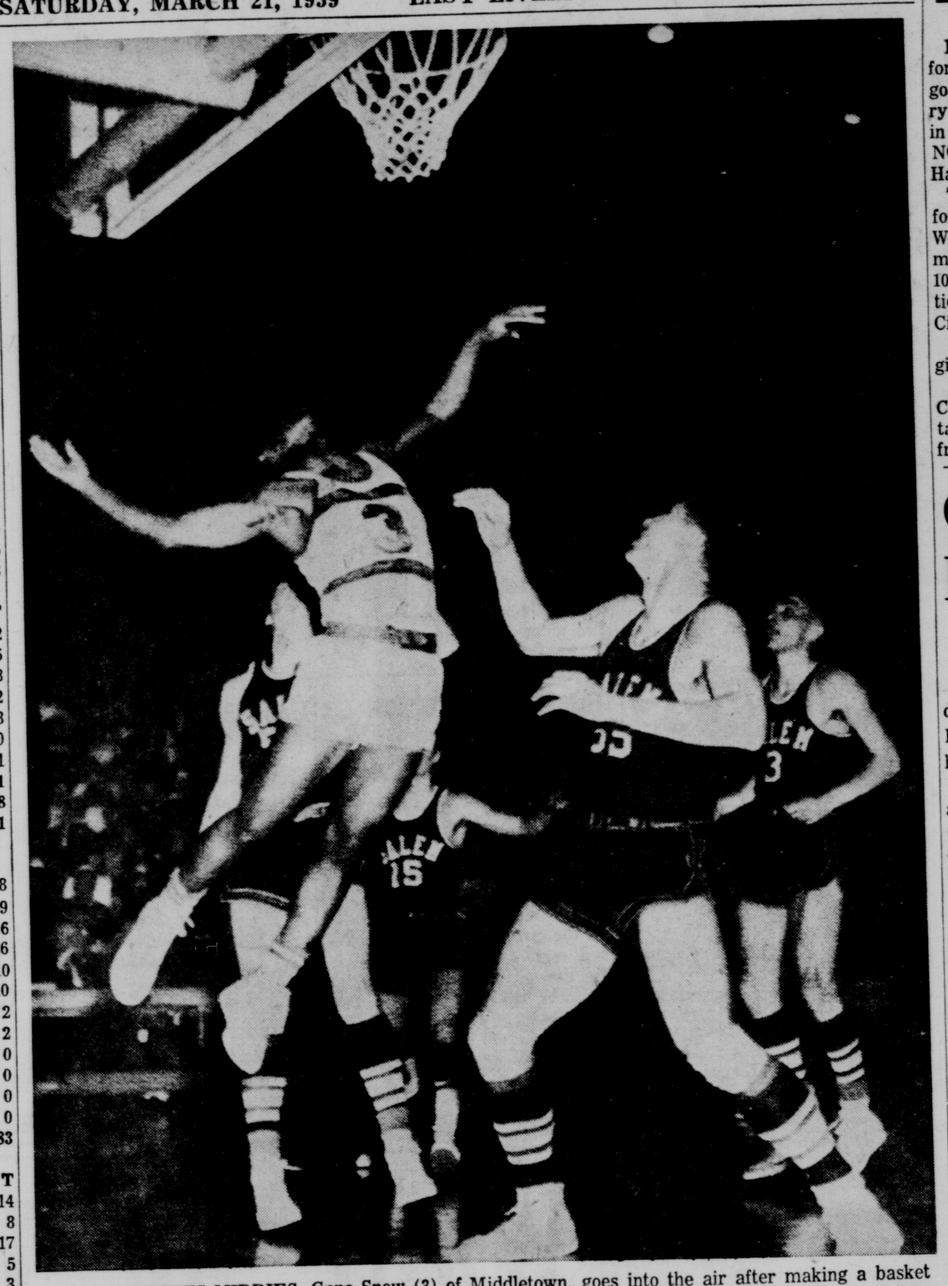

This is Bradley's eighth NIT and third shot at the crown. St. John's has played in 14 invitations, winning in '43 and '44.

NYU and Providence met in a preliminary game for third place.

Don Erickson, Philadelphia pitcher, was the Illinois State horseshoe pitching champion for three straight years, 1946-48.

3 West Virginia Titles At Stake Today

South Charleston, Fairmont West To Square Off For AAA Cage Title

HUNTINGTON (AP) — It looks like a battle of centers when South Charleston and Fairmont West square off here at 8 o'clock tonight for the championship of the State Class AAA High School Basketball Tournament.

Center Jay Dietz, pride of the Rebel South Charleston forces, fashioned 32 points while leading his team past Kanawha County rival DuPont, 68-56, in last night's semifinals.

Charley Terry, hulking Fairmont West pivot man, got 17 points for his team but picked off 20 rebounds while the Polar Bears were chilling Weirton, 57-52.

Terry, who tilts the scales at 240 pounds and who is listed at 6-4½, can move with surprising ease for a big man. Dietz, 6-4, but a mite on the puny side at 166 pounds compared to Terry, rocketed home 12 of 18 floor shots and eight of eight at the foul line. He didn't get the rebounds Terry did, finishing up with only six, but at the rate he was shooting, he didn't have to.

An estimated 3,500 of the faithful gathered here for the semifinals. It was the lowest state tournament crowd in history of the 6,200-capacity Memorial Field House, but a great deal of the loss can be attributed to the great interest in the happenings at Louisville — where West Virginia was having quite a night.

South Charleston Coach Jack Surrette believes the big difference in tonight's contest may be in the rebounding department. The Eagles were outrebounded 42-17 by DuPont.

But this deficit in the rebounding didn't seem to matter much as South Charleston shot at a better than 50 per cent clip, hitting on 26 of 49 field goal tries. DuPont shot about 33 per cent, getting 17 of 51.

Surrette believes his team will be able to fast break the Polar Bears as well as work the ball in on them.

Fairmont Coach Bill Reppert was too worried about the condition of two of his players to venture much comment.

Plagued with the flu bug are regulars Joe Pachuta and Joe Tristani.

"I didn't want to use them against Weirton but had to," Reppert said.

Pachuta scored 16 points against the Red Riders and Tristani got seven-well under his double-figure average.

The Polar Bears, making their 16th appearance in the state tourney, were forced to overcome a 31-25 halftime deficit to beat Weirton. They reeled off 16 points while holding Weirton to four in a third period surge that gave them the lead for good.

South Charleston had things easier in its game. The Eagles were down 17-16 moving into the second period, thanks chiefly to nine points scored by DuPont's Mike Wolfe.

The Eagles then proceeded to jam the middle and hold Wolfe scoreless in the second period while rolling to a 39-27 bulge at the half. That was all for DuPont. Wolfe finished with 16.

It marked South Charleston's second victory in three meetings this season with DuPont—with this the big one.

The Eagles had gone into the finals on only one other occasion in 1957 when they bowed to Huntington East, 47-44.

The Bears actually got a break at the foul line against Weirton. The Red Riders held a 23-19 field goal edge, but could can only six of 20 free throws as against 19 to 31 for the Bears.

The all-around athletic duo of Tom Bloom and Mike Tomosavich were high for Weirton. Bloom finished with 17 markers and Tomosavich with 13.

Athens Picked To Top Fairview In A Finals

HUNTINGTON (AP) — Highflying Athens carried the favorite's role today into its 1 p. m. clash with Fairview in the championship game of the State Class A High School Basketball Tournament.

The smooth-working Trojans gave an impressive demonstration while beating defending small school champion Ansted, 63-51, yesterday in the state semifinals. Fairview wended its way into the title match on the wings of a 64-56 decision over Piedmont.

Both of the finalists are old hands at winning state titles. Athens won the small school honor in 1950 and again in 1953. Fairview gained the title in 1951 and in 1955.

Athens carried a 21-6 record into the contest as against 20-6 for Fairview's Indians.

Class AA Finals Pairs Pt. Pleasant, Lookout

HUNTINGTON (AP) — Point Pleasant, a Johnny-come-lately this season, pitted its fast break against big Dave Shuck and his Lookout teammates today at 3 p. m. in the title match of the State Class AA High School Basketball Tournament.

The Big Blacks, coached by Dick Horton, used their fast break to down Weston, 78-69, while Shuck led his team past flu-ridden Northfork-Elkhorn, 53-48, in yesterday's brace of semifinals.

Second Base Seen Biggest Problem Facing Braves

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — The loss of tubercular victim Red Schoendienst has cut the National League champion Milwaukee Braves down to size.

Manager Fred Haney won't admit it but there is no doubt he is anxious about the second base problem.

Losing Schoendienst is bad enough but the situation has become desperate with the almost certain inavailability of Mel Roach the redhead's understudy.

Roach, who was laid low by a knee injury last August, has been ordered not to take strenous workouts until April 10—the day the Braves open the National League season.

The Braves are counting on rookie Chuck Cottier, who batted .269 at Atlanta last year but has been compared with the spectacular Bill Mazeroski of the Pittsburgh Pirates as a defensive player.

"I'm not worried about second base half as much as I am worried about the catching," said Haney. "I've got three catchers but should something happen to Del Crandall, we'd be in a bad way. Del Rice and Joe Lonnett are all right as second string, but neither can do the job on a regular basis.

"My infield problem isn't as acute as some think. Cottier makes the plays all right. The only question concerns his hitting."

Despite Haney's surface optimism, the second base situation still is up in the air.

The Braves' strength is their pitching, of course. Even Haney acknowledged he has more starters than he can use.

"Then I've got a couple of good looking rookies in Bob Hartman (20-10 at Atlanta) and Gerry Nelson (10-11 at Austin)," he said. "And don't forget Don MacMahon, Humberto Robinson and Bob Trowbridge in the bullpen."

Cincinnati Toppled, 64-58

West Virginia-California To Clash For NCAA Title

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—California and its rock-ribbed defense go against West Virginia and Jerry West, the most prolific scorer in tournament history, for the NCAA basketball title at Freedom Hall tonight.

The two conference titans, California of the Pacific Coast and West Virginia of the Southern, meet in the blue chips game at 10 p.m. EST, following a consolation match for third place between Cincinnati and Louisville.

Neither California nor West Virginia has won an NCAA title.

The big question is whether California's opportunists can contain the magnificent All-America from West Virginia the way they handled Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson in Friday night's semi-finals.

They held Robertson, national scoring champion the last two years, to 19 points and even nullified his play-making in the second half while rallying for a 64-58 victory.

West, a handsome 6-3 junior from little Cabin Creek, W. Va., —a great player all season—has reached his peak in the tournament. Friday night he earned a standing ovation from the partisan crowd of 18,619 after a brilliant 38-point show in a romping 94-79 victory over Louisville.

In four tournament games, West has fired in 132 points—a 33 point pace. He needs 29 tonight to smash the five-game NCAA record of 160 set in 1956 by Hal Lear of Temple.

The Golden Bears, first PCC team to reach the NCAA final since Stanford won the championship in 1942, have parlayed their defense and opportunistic play into a 15-game winning streak and a 24-4 record. Balanced and slow-working in contrast to West Virginia's driving attack, the key men are 6-10 Darrall Imhoff and 6-2 Al Buch.

Eight points behind early in the second half, California caught up with 11 minutes to play and pulled away in the last three minutes as Buch scored 10 of his 18 points and Imhoff cashed in six of his 22.

Orioles Obtain 2 Castoff Hurlers Johnson, Wilhelm

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baltimore's baseball brass today smiled over their wisdom in latching onto a pair of pitching hand-me-downs.

The castoffs — Hoyt Wilhelm and Ernie Johnson — have indicated by their clever hurling that at age 36 and 35, respectively, they still can be effective.

Wilhelm and Johnson both have been vital cogs for pennant-winning clubs in the past, Hoyt with the then New York Giants and Johnson with Milwaukee's Braves.

Knuckleballer Wilhelm and speed-balling Johnson, who laid their claim to fame as relief specialists, combined to shut out St. Louis 3-0 Friday for the Orioles' fourth consecutive victory.

Meanwhile the world champion New York Yankees and the National League champion Milwaukee Braves engaged in a rare exhibition doubleheader. The Yanks bopped the Braves 6-3 and 5-4 in the day-night affair at Miami.

In other games, Los Angeles edged Cincinnati 3-2; Cleveland snipped Boston 5-4; Washington shaded Kansas City 3-2; Detroit beat Pittsburgh 5-3, and Chicago's Cubs subdued San Francisco 3-1.

Bill Skowron hit a three-run homer off Bob Buhl for the Yankees' first game victory. The night cap was decided on an unearned ninth inning tally.

The Dodgers and Reds flew from rain-soaked Florida to Havana to get in their game. Duke Snider doubled home what proved to be the deciding run in the third off former Los Angeles pitcher Don Newcombe.

The Indians continued their mastery over the Boston club, now 10-2 in the standings. They scored two in the ninth to remain the only team that has beaten the Red Sox.

Roy Sievers and Jim Lemon drove in all of Washington's runs as Russ Kemmerer limited the A's to two hits in his five inning stint.

Frank Lary, Paul Foytack and Jim Bunning combined to five hit Pittsburgh as the Tigers benefited from three Pirates miscues.

Right-hander Bob Anderson went the distance for the Cubs and held the Giants to four hits. Home runs by Chick King and Tony Taylor paced the Chicago attack.

Delany Wins 33rd Straight

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ron Delany won his 33rd straight indoor mile race, but had a close call Friday night when Hungary's Istvan Rozsavolgyi pounded up to the finish line only a step or so behind.

The time of 4:06.6 disappointed the 9,330 fans at the Knights of Columbus track meet who had turned out in hopes of seeing Delany's world record time of 4:01.4 lowered.

But when the early pace was too slow, neither Rozy nor the Irishman from Villanova wanted to perk it up. Rozy led by a yard with two laps to go. They were abreast starting the gun lap. Then Delany opened up and grabbed a 10-yard lead.

But Rozy wasn't quitting and came back at Ron with a desperate burst of speed that just missed. Delany ran the last quarter in 59.4 seconds.

The big thrills were provided by another Hungarian, Lazslo Tabori, and a local boy, Dave Mills, now a Purdue freshman.

Tabori ran the third fastest indoor two-mile (8:47.8), cracked Greg Rice's 16-year-old meet record by more than three seconds and soundly whipped Al Lawrence. The latter is an Australian from the University of Houston who two weeks ago set the world record (8:46.8).

Mills, who wasn't considered in the same class with the other runners in the 600-yard run, sped by three swift runners — Pitt's Mel Barnwell, Nick Ellis of Morgan State and Josh Culbreath, the national indoor champion.

Injury To Yardley Dims Syracuse Hopes

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—An injury to George Yardley, their high-scoring forward, dampened the hopes of the Syracuse Nationals as they prepared to meet the Boston Celtics in the second game of the National Basketball Assn.'s Eastern playoffs.

Yardley, who scored 30 points in Boston's opening-game victory Wednesday, sprained an ankle in Friday's workout. But Syracuse Coach Paul Seymour said "we think he'll be all right."

Rich Mayor, Air Force Academy quarterback, last season completed 98 of 174 forward passes for 1,019 yards.

Salem To Battle Cleveland East Tech For Class AA Crown

Lynnwood Faces Edgerton For 'A'

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Cleveland East Tech vs Salem in Class AA, and Edgerton vs Lynnwood-Jacksontown in Class A.

That's the menu today for Ohio's anything-can-happen high school basketball championship finals at St. John Arena.

The finals are a many-angled feature.

For instance:

East Tech, with a 50-game winning streak, can become the third school in Class AA history to repeat for the crown—only Dayton Stivers and Middletown having done it previously.

Salem, by upsetting the Scarabs, can make Quaker coach Johnny Cabas the first Buckeye mentor to take both the big and little school titles. He won the smaller school laurels in 1947 with the colorful Columbiana Clippers.

This is the first time since 1927, when Kent State defeated Oberlin 20-16 with Cleveland Indian general manager Frank Lane as referee, that two teams from the populous Northeastern district have tangled in the big school payoff contest.

East Tech, as a 28th birthday present for coach John Broski, turned on the heat Friday night for a whopping 83-47 win over Toledo Scott. Salem came from behind to nip Middletown's rebuilt Middies 68-65—the second straight year the Butler County crew which boasts seven state championships has failed to get past the first round. The two Middie losses have been by a total of four points.

In Class A two Cinderella teams emerged as the finalists. Edgerton, from far up in the northwest corner of the state, trimmed Northwestern of Wayne County, the defending king and top-ranked club in the class, 58-51.

Lynnwood - Jacksontown, which passes from existence in June through a consolidation maneuver, ousted the last of the Class A unbeaten teams by halting fifth-ranked Salem Local of Champaign County 61-53. Salem Local was the third straight unbeaten team to fall before the Trojans, who had whipped Racine (22-0) and New Boston (27-0) in the Athens regional to get into the big show.

Should the Trojans take the title, an oddity pops up. The Jacksontown team was beaten in the race for the Licking County tournament title, but could erase that memory by turning back the speedy and tenacious Bulldogs. Jack Gill, who has guided the Lynnwood squad to the threshold of the throne room, is in his first year of coaching.

A crowd of 12,669 witnessed the Friday afternoon Class A games, and a capacity throng of 13,924 was on hand for the Class AA games.

The East Tech-Salem game is slated at 8 p.m. tonight and the Edgerton-Jacksontown fray at 2 p.m. East Tech has won 24 straight this year, and Salem has a 25-1 record—the only blot being a nine-point setback at the hands of East Tech in the season's fourth game. Cabas says his boys will avenge that loss and take the crown.

Cabas could credit Jim Lehwald, a 155-pound junior and the only substitute he used against Middletown, for Salem's presence in the finals. The youngster came in late in the third quarter, with the Quakers trailing 47-44. He hit a jump shot to make it 47-46. Then, with the count deadlocked at 50-50 and 18 seconds to go in the period, he banged in another two-pointer to send Salem out front to stay.

His two - pointer opened the fourth period, and he added two free throws with a minute to go to make it 67-59—too much of an edge for Middletown's late spurt to overcome.

Bob Grundish, a tousle-haired 155-pound senior, was the difference in the Edgerton win over Northwestern. He connected for 18 of Edgerton's 31 points in the last half, after the teams had hit the midway point deadlocked at 27-27. His 26-point total was tops for the Class A semi-finals.

Four of Middletown's starters finished in double figures, headed by A. C. Mitchell's 16, but the Salem team's two 5-10 guards, Can Krichbaum and Dave Hunter, had 18 and 16 to offset the Middletown balance — and Lehwald's eight-point contribution ended the Middie magic.

3 West Virginia Titles At Stake Today

South Charleston, Fairmont West To Square Off For AAA Cage Title

HUNTINGTON (AP) — It looks like a battle of centers when South Charleston and Fairmont West square off here at 8 o'clock tonight for the championship of the State Class AAA High School Basketball Tournament.

Center Jay Dietz, pride of the Rebel South Charleston forces, fashioned 32 points while leading his team past Kanawha County rival DuPont, 68-56, in last night's semifinals.

Charley Terry, hulking Fairmont West pivot man, got 17 points for his team but picked off 20 rebounds while the Polar Bears were chilling Weirton, 57-52.

Terry, who tilts the scales at 240 pounds and who is listed at 6-4½, can move with surprising ease for a big man. Dietz, 6-4, but a mite on the puny side at 166 pounds compared to Terry, rocketed home 12 of 18 floor shots and eight of eight at the foul line. He didn't get the rebounds Terry did, finishing up with only six, but at the rate he was shooting, he didn't have to.

An estimated 3,500 of the faithful gathered here for the semifinals. It was the lowest state tournament crowd in history of the 6,200-capacity Memorial Field House, but a great deal of the loss can be attributed to the great interest in the happenings at Louisville — where West Virginia was having quite a night.

South Charleston Coach Jack Surrette believes the big difference in tonight's contest may be in the rebounding department. The Eagles were outrebounded 42-17 by DuPont.

But this deficit in the rebounding didn't seem to matter much as South Charleston shot at a better than 50 per cent clip, hitting on 26 of 49 field goal tries. DuPont shot about 33 per cent, getting 17 of 51.

Surrette believes his team will be able to fast break the Polar Bears as well as work the ball in on them.

Fairmont Coach Bill Reppert was too worried about the condition of two of his players to venture much comment.

Plagued with the flu bug are regulars Joe Pachuta and Joe Tristani.

"I didn't want to use them against Weirton but had to," Reppert said.

Pachuta scored 16 points against the Red Riders and Tristani got seven-well under his double-figure average.

The Polar Bears, making their 16th appearance in the state tourney, were forced to overcome a 31-25 halftime deficit to beat Weirton. They reeled off 16 points while holding Weirton to four in a third period surge that gave them the lead for good.

South Charleston had things easier in its game. The Eagles were down 17-16 moving into the second period, thanks chiefly to nine points scored by DuPont's Mike Wolfe.

The Eagles then proceeded to jam the middle and hold Wolfe scoreless in the second period while rolling to a 39-27 bulge at the half. That was all for DuPont. Wolfe finished with 16.

It marked South Charleston's second victory in three meetings this season with DuPont—with this the big one.

The Eagles had gone into the finals on only one other occasion in 1957 when they bowed to Huntington East, 47-44.

The Bears actually got a break at the foul line against Weirton. The Red Riders held a 23-19 field goal edge, but could can only six of 20 free throws as against 19 to 31 for the Bears.

The all-around athletic duo of Tom Bloom and Mike Tomosavich were high for Weirton. Bloom finished with 17 markers and Tomosavich with 13.

Athens Picked To Top Fairview In A Finals

HUNTINGTON (AP) — Highflying Athens carried the favorite's role today into its 1 p. m. clash with Fairview in the championship game of the State Class A High School Basketball Tournament.

The smooth-working Trojans gave an impressive demonstration while beating defending small school champion Ansted, 63-51, yesterday in the state semifinals. Fairview wended its way into the title match on the wings of a 64-56 decision over Piedmont.

Both of the finalists are old hands at winning state titles. Athens won the small school honor in 1950 and again in 1953. Fairview gained the title in 1951 and in 1955.

Athens carried a 21-6 record into the contest as against 20-6 for Fairview's Indians.

Class AA Finals Pairs Pt. Pleasant, Lookout

HUNTINGTON (AP) — Point Pleasant, a Johnny-come-lately this season, pitted its fast break against big Dave Shuck and his Lookout teammates today at 3 p. m. in the title match of the State Class AA High School Basketball Tournament.

The Big Blacks, coached by Dick Horton, used their fast break to down Weston, 78-69, while Shuck led his team past flu-ridden Northfork-Elkhorn, 53-48, in yesterday's brace of semifinals.

Second Base Seen Biggest Problem Facing Braves

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — The loss of tubercular victim Red Schoendienst has cut the National League champion Milwaukee Braves down to size.

Manager Fred Haney won't admit it but there is no doubt he is anxious about the second base problem.

Losing Schoendienst is bad enough but the situation has become desperate with the almost certain inavailability of Mel Roach the redhead's understudy.

Roach, who was laid low by a knee injury last August, has been ordered not to take strenous workouts until April 10—the day the Braves open the National League season.

The Braves are counting on rookie Chuck Cottier, who batted .269 at Atlanta last year but has been compared with the spectacular Bill Mazeroski of the Pittsburgh Pirates as a defensive player.

"I'm not worried about second base half as much as I am worried about the catching," said Haney. "I've got three catchers but should something happen to Del Crandall, we'd be in a bad way. Del Rice and Joe Lonnett are all right as second string, but neither can do the job on a regular basis.

"My infield problem isn't as acute as some think. Cottier makes the plays all right. The only question concerns his hitting."

Despite Haney's surface optimism, the second base situation still is up in the air.

The Braves' strength is their pitching, of course. Even Haney acknowledged he has more starters than he can use.

"Then I've got a couple of good looking rookies in Bob Hartman (20-10 at Atlanta) and Gerry Nelson (10-11 at Austin)," he said. "And don't forget Don MacMahon, Humberto Robinson and Bob Trowbridge in the bullpen."

Cincinnati Toppled, 64-58

West Virginia - California To Clash For NCAA Title

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—California and its rock-ribbed defense go against West Virginia and Jerry West, the most prolific scorer in tournament history, for the NCAA basketball title at Freedom Hall tonight.

The two conference titans, California of the Pacific Coast and West Virginia of the Southern, meet in the blue chips game at 10 p.m. EST, following a consolation match for third place between Cincinnati and Louisville.

Neither California nor West Virginia has won an NCAA title.

The big question is whether California's opportunists can contain the magnificent All-America from West Virginia the way they handled Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson in Friday night's semi-finals.

They held Robertson, national scoring champion the last two years, to 19 points and even nullified his play-making in the second half while rallying for a 64-58 victory.

West, a handsome 6-3 junior from little Cabin Creek, W. Va., —a great player all season—has reached his peak in the tournament. Friday night he earned a standing ovation from the partisan crowd of 18,619 after a brilliant 38-point show in a romping 94-79 victory over Louisville.

In four tournament games, West has fired in 132 points—a 33 point pace. He needs 29 tonight to smash the five-game NCAA record of 160 set in 1956 by Hal Lear of Temple.

The Golden Bears, first PCC team to reach the NCAA final since Stanford won the championship in 1942, have parlayed their defense and opportunistic play into a 15-game winning streak and a 24-4 record. Balanced and slow-working in contrast to West Virginia's driving attack, the key men are 6-10 Darrall Imhoff and 6-2 Al Buch.

Eight points behind early in the second half, California caught up with 11 minutes to play and pulled away in the last three minutes as Buch scored 10 of his 18 points and Imhoff cashed in six of his 22.

Orioles Obtain 2 Castoff Hurlers Johnson, Wilhelm

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baltimore's baseball brass today smiled over their wisdom in latching onto a pair of pitching hand-me-downs.

The castoffs — Hoyt Wilhelm and Ernie Johnson — have indicated by their clever hurling that at age 36 and 35, respectively, they still can be effective.

Wilhelm and Johnson both have been vital cogs for pennant-winning clubs in the past, Hoyt with the then New York Giants and Johnson with Milwaukee's Braves.

Knuckleballer Wilhelm and speed-balling Johnson, who laid their claim to fame as relief specialists, combined to shut out St. Louis 3-0 Friday for the Orioles' fourth consecutive victory.

Meanwhile the world champion New York Yankees and the National League champion Milwaukee Braves engaged in a rare exhibition doubleheader. The Yanks bopped the Braves 6-3 and 5-4 in the day-night affair at Miami.

In other games, Los Angeles edged Cincinnati 3-2; Cleveland snipped Boston 5-4; Washington shaded Kansas City 3-2; Detroit beat Pittsburgh 5-3, and Chicago's Cubs subdued San Francisco 3-1.

Bill Skowron hit a three-run homer off Bob Buhl for the Yankees' first game victory. The night cap was decided on an unearned ninth inning tally.

The Dodgers and Reds flew from rain-soaked Florida to Havana to get in their game. Duke Snider doubled home what proved to be the deciding run in the third off former Los Angeles pitcher Don Newcombe.

The Indians continued their mastery over the Boston club, now 10-2 in the standings. They scored two in the ninth to remain the only team that has beaten the Red Sox.

Roy Sievers and Jim Lemon drove in all of Washington's runs as Russ Kemmerer limited the A's to two hits in his five inning stint.

Frank Lary, Paul Foytack and Jim Bunning combined to five hit Pittsburgh as the Tigers benefited from three Pirates miscues.

Right-hander Bob Anderson went the distance for the Cubs and held the Giants to four hits. Home runs by Chick King and Tony Taylor paced the Chicago attack.

Delany Wins 33rd Straight

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ron Delany won his 33rd straight indoor mile race, but had a close call Friday night when Hungary's Istvan Rozsavolgyi pounded up to the finish line only a step or so behind.

The time of 4:06.6 disappointed the 9,330 fans at the Knights of Columbus track meet who had turned out in hopes of seeing Delany's world record time of 4:01.4 lowered.

But when the early pace was too slow, neither Rozy nor the Irishman from Villanova wanted to perk it up. Rozy led by a yard with two laps to go. They were abreast starting the gun lap. Then Delany opened up and grabbed a 10-yard lead.

But Rozy wasn't quitting and came back at Ron with a desperate burst of speed that just missed. Delany ran the last quarter in 59.4 seconds.

The big thrills were provided by another Hungarian, Lazslo Tabori, and a local boy, Dave Mills, now a Purdue freshman.

Tabori ran the third fastest indoor two-mile (8:47.8), cracked Greg Rice's 16-year-old meet record by more than three seconds and soundly whipped Al Lawrence. The latter is an Australian from the University of Houston who two weeks ago set the world record (8:46.8).

Mills, who wasn't considered in the same class with the other runners in the 600-yard run, sped by three swift runners — Pitt's Mel Barnwell, Nick Ellis of Morgan State and Josh Culbreath, the national indoor champion.

Injury To Yardley Dims Syracuse Hopes

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—An injury to George Yardley, their high-scoring forward, dampened the hopes of the Syracuse Nationals as they prepared to meet the Boston Celtics in the second game of the National Basketball Assn.'s Eastern playoffs.

Yardley, who scored 30 points in Boston's opening-game victory Wednesday, sprained an ankle in Friday's workout. But Syracuse Coach Paul Seymour said "we think he'll be all right."

Rich Mayor, Air Force Academy quarterback, last season completed 98 of 174 forward passes for 1,019 yards.

Special Election Reset On School District Levy

An on-again, off-again special election in the Mahoning Local District is on again, the County Election Board was advised Friday by the Mahoning County Board of Elections.

Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk of the Columbiana board, said the school district resubmitted a 3-mill operating levy yesterday. The levy originally was submitted about six weeks ago and then withdrawn about two weeks ago by school officials.

The levy will be voted on at a special election May 5, the same day as the primaries, in the district, which includes Knox and Butler Townships in Columbiana County.

The board will have to reorder poll books for the election after canceling the original arrangements when the levy was withdrawn, O'Hanlon said.

Ohio Catholic Group Asks Higher Minimum Wage

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Legislature has been called upon by the Ohio Catholic Welfare Conference to enact a higher state minimum wage, remove the ceiling on aid-to-the-aged payments and pass a fair employment practices bill.

Those were among several resolutions which the conference adopted before ending its two-day session here Friday. More than 100 clergy and lay delegates attended the OCWC's biennial meeting, along with Ohio's 10 Catholic bishops.

Other resolutions called upon the Legislature to:

Study the migrant labor problem; create an alcoholism advisory board in the Department of Health; make 16 years old the minimum age for obtaining scooter operator's licenses; and modernize the unemployment compensation law by increasing both the amount of benefits and the benefit period, and easing restrictions in general.

The conference went on record as opposing:

A simply majority for passage of bond issues (because of not being representative of the community).

Elimination of prepaid sales tax stamps and their redemption by charitable organizations.

A bill which would make driver training in schools mandatory.

A proposal to take the power from state hospitals in regards to deciding who shall serve on their staffs.

A measure to allow the state board of education to fix a uniform age for admission to schools.

A bill to set educational requirements for teacher certification (because of what delegates called confusing language in the bill.)

Inmates Backers Of Cincy Cagers; It Helps Honesty

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—County jail prisoners are fans of the University of Cincinnati basketball team and the fact helped promote a little honesty Friday.

Police, hearing that a club was hidden somewhere in a cell block, ordered a shakedown. And they warned there would be no television of the California-Cincinnati NCAA tournament game Friday night unless the weapon was turned in.

Prisoners on the second floor turned in not one but three clubs.

Then inmates on the first floor gave up two more.

And finally, prisoners on the second floor also turned in three hacksaw blades.

The jail TV set was returned to the inmates.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Friends Handicap Reluctant Dieter

Notice to reluctant dieters: On the diet score, it's generally a mistake to follow the advice of friends. They will rally round and discourage you from giving up favorite fattening fare. This note from a young lady is typical. . . .

Ida Jean Kain

"I am 22 years old and married. I weigh 30 pounds too much. I've tried all kinds of diets but I can't stay with them. I've gotten to the point where I tell myself, 'You don't look so bad — if you just don't gain any more.' My friends say, "Oh you don't look fat, come on have some more.' And so I keep gaining. . . ."

It is always comforting to get others to rationalize with you. Thirty excess pounds quite obviously puts you past pleasingly plump. Recognize that you are kidding yourself, and asking your friends to reinforce this deception.

—:—

WHEN FRIENDS reassure you on the weight score, it's because you are inviting them to do exactly that. You might better quit playing that game right now!

Competition adds life to reducing. Put yourself on the spot by challenging someone else to reduce with you. Choose a friend who is in the same overweight shape as you are and invite her to slim down with you.

Make this an exciting adventure. Set a goal and resolve to be beautiful normal weight by the first day of summer — this summer. On June 21st you can be 30 pounds lighter. Add a little regular exercise to your slimming routine and you will look and feel young again! Make up your mind that by the first day of summer you will slip into a swim suit two sizes smaller.

The greatest favor you can do yourself is to learn to eat to build slimness and re-educate your food habits. Keep the calories between 1,100 and 1,200 a day. Here's a promise: If you have the gumption to discipline your appetite for one week on protective fare, you have what it takes to slim down.

Here is convincing proof from another young overweight who is slimming down.

"One night after I had gone to bed so stuffed I could hardly breathe, I made up my mind to reduce. I asked myself, 'Which means more to you — all that food and apple pie, or a nice shape and figure?"

"I went to sleep thinking about a shapely figure and the next day I began. I ate a modest serving of everything, but passed up the fatteners — fried foods, gravy and the like, pie and cake. I make sure my calories do not go over 1,200 a day.

—:—

"I HAVE already reduced 12 pounds. Tell your overweights that only the first four days are tough. It is worth all the effort to feel better and to see a gleam of admiration in my husband's eye that hasn't been there for a long time."

All right, are you game to accept the challenge? Let us hear from you by the first day of summer.

Send a long, stamped, self - addressed envelope for "Hunger Control Diet." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain in care of this newspaper.

Fire Destroys Two Crestline Business Stores

CRESTLINE, Ohio (AP)—Two downtown business stores in this Crawford County village were burned out by fire Friday night.

They were the Ben Franklin Five-and-Dime Store and the Bevier Dry Goods Store, both located within two-story brick buildings.

No one was reported injured.

W. E. Cairns, a member of Crestline's volunteer fire department, said the two buildings apparently are a total loss.

A damage estimate was not immediately available.

The fire broke out in the dry goods store and for a time threatened to envelop two buildings adjoining the flame-scarred structures.

Firemen managed to confine the blaze, although the two adjoining buildings, housing another five-and-dime store and a newsstand, suffered smoke and water damage.

Fire - fighters were still pouring water on the smoking ruins early today. The blaze was brought under control about midnight—five hours after the alarm was turned in. Its cause was not immediately determined.

Mansfield, Galion, Shelby and Bucyrus all sent in fire trucks or men to aid Crestline's 24-man fire department. In all, about 35 firemen and seven fire trucks were at the scene.

I've gotten to the point where I tell myself, 'You don't look so bad — if you just don't gain any more.' My friends say, "Oh you don't look fat, come on have some more.' And so I keep gaining. . . ."

It is always comforting to get others to rationalize with you. Thirty excess pounds quite obviously puts you past pleasingly plump. Recognize that you are kidding yourself, and asking your friends to reinforce this deception.

—:—

WHEN FRIENDS reassure you on the weight score, it's because you are inviting them to do exactly that. You might better quit playing that game right now!

Competition adds life to reducing. Put yourself on the spot by challenging someone else to reduce with you. Choose a friend who is in the same overweight shape as you are and invite her to slim down with you.

Make this an exciting adventure. Set a goal and resolve to be beautiful normal weight by the first day of summer — this summer. On June 21st you can be 30 pounds lighter. Add a little regular exercise to your slimming routine and you will look and feel young again! Make up your mind that by the first day of summer you will slip into a swim suit two sizes smaller.

The greatest favor you can do yourself is to learn to eat to build slimness and re-educate your food habits. Keep the calories between 1,100 and 1,200 a day. Here's a promise: If you have the gumption to discipline your appetite for one week on protective fare, you have what it takes to slim down.

Here is convincing proof from another young overweight who is slimming down.

"One night after I had gone to bed so stuffed I could hardly breathe, I made up my mind to reduce. I asked myself, 'Which means more to you — all that food and apple pie, or a nice shape and figure?"

"I went to sleep thinking about a shapely figure and the next day I began. I ate a modest serving of everything, but passed up the fatteners — fried foods, gravy and the like, pie and cake. I make sure my calories do not go over 1,200 a day.

—:—

"I HAVE already reduced 12 pounds. Tell your overweights that only the first four days are tough. It is worth all the effort to feel better and to see a gleam of admiration in my husband's eye that hasn't been there for a long time."

All right, are you game to accept the challenge? Let us hear from you by the first day of summer.

Send a long, stamped, self - addressed envelope for "Hunger Control Diet." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain in care of this newspaper.

Fire Destroys Two Crestline Business Stores

CRESTLINE, Ohio (AP)—Two downtown business stores in this Crawford County village were burned out by fire Friday night.

They were the Ben Franklin Five-and-Dime Store and the Bevier Dry Goods Store, both located within two-story brick buildings.

No one was reported injured.

W. E. Cairns, a member of Crestline's volunteer fire department, said the two buildings apparently are a total loss.

A damage estimate was not immediately available.

The fire broke out in the dry goods store and for a time threatened to envelop two buildings adjoining the flame-scarred structures.

Firemen managed to confine the blaze, although the two adjoining buildings, housing another five-and-dime store and a newsstand, suffered smoke and water damage.

Fire - fighters were still pouring water on the smoking ruins early today. The blaze was brought under control about midnight—five hours after the alarm was turned in. Its cause was not immediately determined.

Mansfield, Galion, Shelby and Bucyrus all sent in fire trucks or men to aid Crestline's 24-man fire department. In all, about 35 firemen and seven fire trucks were at the scene.

In Addition To Tax Measures

Many Of DiSalle's Bills Are Facing Rough Time

By DUANE E. CROFT
Review Staff Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The big push in the Ohio Legislature for the next month will be on new taxes.

But that doesn't mean some other bills high on Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's priority list are going to be sidetracked. And some of them face as rough a time with reluctant lawmakers as the money matters.

His ideas for tightening up executive control of the state's sprawling government, for instance.

Exhibit A in this line is the plan to abolish or drastically revise the State Board of Liquor Control to put all of its power to set policy into the hands of the director of the Department of Liquor Control, who is a cabinet officer responsible only to the governor.

Exhibit B is the bill to abolish some 35 rotary funds and put their cash into the general fund.

Exhibit C is the proposal to give 24 "maverick" agencies new homes in departments of cabinet status. These are independent boards and commissions which presently exist pretty much in and of themselves.

Bills Introduced

Bills to accomplish all these have been dropped in the hopper.

Hearings started in the Senate Finance Committee last week on the rotary fund measure. House Speaker James A. Lantz has promised the other two will be coming up for airings soon.

This does not assure their ultimate success, though, by any means.

Traditional legislative jealousy of the executive branch is bound to make some lawmakers wary. That is backed up by considerable public distrust of too much concentration of power in any segment of its government.

But the governor offers some strong arguments of his own and is ready to go to bat for them.

"The more you fix responsibility, the better government you are going to have," he said in a recent press conference. "Unfortunately, the trend in government has been to so diffuse responsibility that it is difficult to say just who did what.

Wants Strong Bond

"The stronger the bond of authority is between the chief executive and the people, the more informed decisions you are going to have at the polls.

"It is not the same as a dictatorship, where the people have no way to express their opinions."

Di Salle also has served notice he will move in the future to tighten the reins on the multi-million-dollar School Foundation Fund and the Public Utilities Commission.

In the meantime, he is watching to see what happens to the ideas already in the works.

Lantz Makes Check

Speaker Lantz will settle himself more firmly in the leadership saddle during the coming week and spur his lieutenants to faster action on the business before the House.

"Have Program, Will Push It" might well be his motto.

Starting Monday, the quiet-spoken Lancaster lawyer will hold regular meetings with the chairmen of the 21 standing committees to direct and check on progress of the major Democratic commitments and administration requests.

These meetings apparently will replace those of the majority party's policy committee, whose open discussions have been called off the last two Monday afternoons.

How Much Longer?

As sunny, springlike days begin to slip into the weather picture now and then, the inevitable murmurs about when the session will end become more and more audible among the legislators.

The answer can be determined roughly by the accomplishment of three things:

PASSAGE of tax bills.

PASSAGE of appropriations.

PASSAGE of the rest of the Democratic platform.

"After that, we can shut up shop and go home just about any time we like," Lantz says.

Could the speaker say about when that will be?

"No, but I certainly want to get in some golf this year!"

PROF. W. C. CRAIG
Guest For 'Rotary Ann Night'.

Wooster College Professor To Talk At Rotary Party

William C. Craig, professor of speech at the College of Wooster, will be speaker at the annual "Ladies Night" dinner of the Rotary Club Tuesday at 7 at the Country Club.

Head of the Speech Department at the college, Prof. Craig has taught at Northwestern University, Capital University and Union Theological Seminary, and is a member of the Radio and Television Department of the Presbyterian Church.

A music program will be presented by the Great Scots Quartet, followed by dancing. Frank Dawson is chairman of the committee, which includes Ed Bayley, E. R. Chandler, William Cooper, Jay Kinsey, George Mueller and John Thompson.

Underwood Signs 57 Measures

Horse Racing Bill Vetoed

CHARLESTON (AP) — A $2,200,000 gross sales tax enactment was law with Gov. Underwood's approval today and a new road mile tax was on the books without his signature, but 10 other acts of the recent Legislature received vetoes.

Underwood managed to clear his desk of the last 68 measures to reach him shortly before last midnight's deadline for acting upon them. Altogether yesterday, he signed 57 acts, vetoed nine and took no action on two.

One of the vetoed measures was a controversial state horse racing proposal which stirred up bitter debate both in the Senate, where Majority Leader Clarence E. Martin introduced it, and in the House.

The controversy largely involved a provision to wipe out all licenses previously granted for racing meetings scheduled to begin after the effective date of the new act. The Legislature made the act effective from passage.

Underwood's veto message said that the bill was designed to render moot a case now headed for the State Supreme Court and involving racing dates at Wheeling Downs.

Three other acts vetoed yesterday and last night would have transferred to the Legislative Auditor's Office from executive departments certain governmental auditing functions.

Also vetoed were enactments to:

Increase from $20,000 to $25,000 the maximum amount recoverable in a wrongful death action, but also make other changes which Underwood found undesirable in the present law.

Exclude from the scope of any order setting up a reserve in general revenue appropriations, because of declining revenues or other reasons, appropriations for the Legislature and the judiciary.

Prevent the immediate impounding of a vehicle owned by a West Virginian for a highway weight law violation, with a provision for a court appearance within five days.

Provide that criminal charges would not lie in a road law weight violation when it would appear that a rearrangement of the load on a vehicle could bring the burden on individual axles within permissible limits.

Authorize the issuance of a marriage license to persons under the age of consent upon proof of pregnancy by a physician's certificate.

Underwood vetoed earlier in the session, at the request of the measure's sponsor, an act to change the penalty for a forgery conviction after a technical mixup occurred over amendments the Senate made to the bill.

The gross sales tax measure Underwood signed last night was enacted by the Legislature last Saturday night, in the closing moments of its session, as a means of obtaining new revenue to balance the 1959-60 budget.

It set up higher rates in 12 of 21 classifications of business and industry listed under the tax statute. The new law becomes effective July 1.

The road mile tax generally will establish, also as of July 1, a new procedure for registration of West Virginia and interstate trucks as a more effective means of collecting from the latter the state gasoline tax for the mileage they travel in the state.

Underwood also permitted to become law without his signature last night an enactment limiting to four categories vehicles which are exempt from the Public Service Commission's motor carrier regulations.

The exemptions now cover strictly defined farm vehicles, coal trucks from a mine to a shipping point, ambulances and equipment of volunteer fire departments.

Underwood said he found several desirable additions and changes to present law in the horse racing act, including a provision requiring a disclosure of true owners of all racing associations operating in West Virginia.

He added, however, that the desirable features were outweighed and nullified by others. He called circumstances surrounding the act and its effective date "Machiavellian" in character.

By its effect of by - passing orderly judicial procedures, the governor said, the measure would "do violence to the principle of separation of powers" and could lead to nothing but additional court litigation.

Among other legislative acts signed by Underwood would:

Provide salary increases for numerous county officials such as prosecutors and their assistants, sheriffs, county and circuit clerks and assesors.

Increase the cost of automobile and truck license plates to provide about $3,200,000 more a year for roads.

She has lived in Ohio Township 26 years and has been a life-long Republican, she said. Her special hobby is making toys for her grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren. She is the mother of 10, with 8 still living.

Other activities include quilting, knitting and crocheting. She has won several blue ribbons for her needlework at exhibitions and fairs.

Mrs. Curnutte was born in Louisa, Ky., in 1864, a year before Abraham Lincoln was shot.

CLEVELAND (AP)—A 34-year-old man, shot by police when he ignored orders to halt, died today in Lakeside Hospital. He was Robert Nicholson.

His estranged wife, Willie Ruth, telephoned police Friday night that someone was putting a ladder up to the window of her second-story apartment.

When detectives arrived they found Nicholson inside the house.

CLEVELAND (AP) — The body of Byron Perry, 25, was found face down in a small stream in Beachwood Village Friday. Police said Perry had been dead for several days. Deputy Coroner Lester Adelson said an autopsy will be performed to determine the cause of death.

Ohio Watershed Project Is Given U.S. Approval

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The first federal aid program for a watershed project in Ohio has been approved and will get an estimated $799,000 in funds, Raymond S. Brown, state conservationist for the U.S. Soil Conservancy Service said Friday.

The project, on the upper Wabash watershed in Darke and Mercer Counties, calls for three dams to hold back flood waters and about 30 miles of channel improvement. Individual farm conservation practices are also encouraged under the project.

Contract probably will be let in the spring of 1960, Brown said. The district, formed last year, is expected to lead efforts for an additional $732,000.

About 148 projects of this type have been authorized over the nation, but this is the first in Ohio, Brown commented.

Also being considered for help are Marsh Run in Huron, Richland and Crawford Counties; Rush Creek in Perry, Fairfield and Hocking; Dicks Creek in Warren and Butler, and Chippewa in Wayne and Medina.

In Addition To Tax Measures

Many Of DiSalle's Bills Are Facing Rough Time

By DUANE E. CROFT
Review Staff Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The big push in the Ohio Legislature for the next month will be on new taxes.

But that doesn't mean some other bills high on Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's priority list are going to be sidetracked. And some of them face as rough a time with reluctant lawmakers as the money matters.

His ideas for tightening up executive control of the state's sprawling government, for instance.

Exhibit A in this line is the plan to abolish or drastically revise the State Board of Liquor Control to put all of its power to set policy into the hands of the director of the Department of Liquor Control, who is a cabinet officer responsible only to the governor.

Exhibit B is the bill to abolish some 35 rotary funds and put their cash into the general fund.

Exhibit C is the proposal to give 24 "maverick" agencies new homes in departments of cabinet status. These are independent boards and commissions which presently exist pretty much in and of themselves.

Bills Introduced

Bills to accomplish all these have been dropped in the hopper.

Hearings started in the Senate Finance Committee last week on the rotary fund measure. House Speaker James A. Lantz has promised the other two will be coming up for airings soon.

This does not assure their ultimate success, though, by any means.

Traditional legislative jealousy of the executive branch is bound to make some lawmakers wary. That is backed up by considerable public distrust of too much concentration of power in any segment of its government.

But the governor offers some strong arguments of his own and is ready to go to bat for them.

"The more you fix responsibility, the better government you are going to have," he said in a recent press conference. "Unfortunately, the trend in government has been to so diffuse responsibility that it is difficult to say just who did what.

Wants Strong Bond

"The stronger the bond of authority is between the chief executive and the people, the more informed decisions you are going to have at the polls.

"It is not the same as a dictatorship, where the people have no way to express their opinions."

Di Salle also has served notice he will move in the future to tighten the reins on the multi-million-dollar School Foundation Fund and the Public Utilities Commission.

In the meantime, he is watching to see what happens to the ideas already in the works.

Lantz Makes Check

Speaker Lantz will settle himself more firmly in the leadership saddle during the coming week and spur his lieutenants to faster action on the business before the House.

"Have Program, Will Push It" might well be his motto.

Starting Monday, the quiet-spoken Lancaster lawyer will hold regular meetings with the chairmen of the 21 standing committees to direct and check on progress of the major Democratic commitments and administration requests.

These meetings apparently will replace those of the majority party's policy committee, whose open discussions have been called off the last two Monday afternoons.

How Much Longer?

As sunny, springlike days begin to slip into the weather picture now and then, the inevitable murmurs about when the session will end become more and more audible among the legislators.

The answer can be determined roughly by the accomplishment of three things:

PASSAGE of tax bills.

PASSAGE of appropriations.

PASSAGE of the rest of the Democratic platform.

"After that, we can shut up shop and go home just about any time we like," Lantz says.

Could the speaker say about when that will be?

"No, but I certainly want to get in some golf this year!"

Underwood Signs 57 Measures

Horse Racing Bill Vetoed

CHARLESTON (AP) — A $2,200,000 gross sales tax enactment was law with Gov. Underwood's approval today and a new road mile tax was on the books without his signature, but 10 other acts of the recent Legislature received vetoes.

Underwood managed to clear his desk of the last 68 measures to reach him shortly before last midnight's deadline for acting upon them. Altogether yesterday, he signed 57 acts, vetoed nine and took no action on two.

One of the vetoed measures was a controversial state horse racing proposal which stirred up bitter debate both in the Senate, where Majority Leader Clarence E. Martin introduced it, and in the House.

The controversy largely involved a provision to wipe out all licenses previously granted for racing meetings scheduled to begin after the effective date of the new act. The Legislature made the act effective from passage.

Underwood's veto message said that the bill was designed to render moot a case now headed for the State Supreme Court and involving racing dates at Wheeling Downs.

Three other acts vetoed yesterday and last night would have transferred to the Legislative Auditor's Office from executive departments certain governmental auditing functions.

Also vetoed were enactments to:

Increase from $20,000 to $25,000 the maximum amount recoverable in a wrongful death action, but also make other changes which Underwood found undesirable in the present law.

Exclude from the scope of any order setting up a reserve in general revenue appropriations, because of declining revenues or other reasons, appropriations for the Legislature and the judiciary.

Prevent the immediate impounding of a vehicle owned by a West Virginian for a highway weight law violation, with a provision for a court appearance within five days.

Provide that criminal charges would not lie in a road law weight violation when it would appear that a rearrangement of the load on a vehicle could bring the burden on individual axles within permissible limits.

Authorize the issuance of a marriage license to persons under the age of consent upon proof of pregnancy by a physician's certificate.

Underwood vetoed earlier in the session, at the request of the measure's sponsor, an act to change the penalty for a forgery conviction after a technical mixup occurred over amendments the Senate made to the bill.

The gross sales tax measure Underwood signed last night was enacted by the Legislature last Saturday night, in the closing moments of its session, as a means of obtaining new revenue to balance the 1959-60 budget.

It set up higher rates in 12 of 21 classifications of business and industry listed under the tax statute. The new law becomes effective July 1.

The road mile tax generally will establish, also as of July 1, a new procedure for registration of West Virginia and interstate trucks as a more effective means of collecting from the latter the state gasoline tax for the mileage they travel in the state.

Underwood also permitted to become law without his signature last night an enactment limiting to four categories vehicles which are exempt from the Public Service Commission's motor carrier regulations.

The exemptions now cover strictly defined farm vehicles, coal trucks from a mine to a shipping point, ambulances and equipment of volunteer fire departments.

Underwood said he found several desirable additions and changes to present law in the horse racing act, including a provision requiring a disclosure of true owners of all racing associations operating in West Virginia.

He added, however, that the desirable features were outweighed and nullified by others. He called circumstances surrounding the act and its effective date "Machiavellian" in character.

By its effect of by - passing orderly judicial procedures, the governor said, the measure would "do violence to the principle of separation of powers" and could lead to nothing but additional court litigation.

Among other legislative acts signed by Underwood would:

Provide salary increases for numerous county officials such as prosecutors and their assistants, sheriffs, county and circuit clerks and assesors.

Increase the cost of automobile and truck license plates to provide about $3,200,000 more a year for roads.
